Satellite Rocketed Into Place

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — American space scientists today rocketed the new Syncom-3 communications satellite into an apparent stationary orbit and set up a direct television link between Asia and the United States.

The feat was accomplished by a 19.6 second burst of a rocket aboard the satellite as Syncom-3 whirled over Sumatra on the third sweep of a temporary yo-yo orbit achieved Wednesday. Two gas jets aboard the satellite will now take over and gently nudge the satellite eastward for about 10 days until it reaches the desired final position over the juncture of the international dateline and the equator.

"It looks good," a space agency spokesman said. But he said "it will be a number of hours until it is known whether the satellite has indeed achieved the world's first truly stationary orbit."

N-Arms Ban Backed

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union said today it is prepared to sign a general treaty banning the use of nuclear weapons. Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference such a treaty "would put an end to all nuclear aggression."

He expressed strong support for a proposal by Ethiopian delegate Mikael Imru that the next United Nations General Assembly should convene a world conference to draft a treaty outlawing the use of nuclear weapons in war.

Western delegates immediately described the proposal as impractical and likely to create a false and dangerous sense of security.

Imru said the conference should take action to implement a 1961 UN resolution urging the United States and Russia to consider the possibility of a general ban on the use of nuclear arms. He urged that a general convention laying down such a ban should be drafted quickly.

It was the first time the subject has come before the two-year-old disarmament conference.

Tsarapkin welcomed Imru's initiative. "The Soviet government is ready to assume all the commitments attached to such a convention, provided other states do likewise," he said.

BURNS DOUBTFUL

The first western speaker in the debate, Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada said a declaration outlining the use of nuclear arms was "unlikely to produce useful results and, moreover, will give rise to a dangerous false sense of security."

Burns said such a declaration was unlikely to be observed by states which felt their security was threatened. "History has shown that previous similar declarations have all been violated, without exception," he added.

U.S. delegate Clare Timberlake did not speak in the conference session but he told reporters afterward the proposal "remains as unacceptable to the United States as it always has been."

Pregnant Women Jump In Front of Trucks

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 1,000 villagers led by children and pregnant women waving Buddhist flags swarmed around an armored personnel carrier at Tuy Hoa today, tying up a key portion of a massive anti-Viet Cong guerrilla operation of the South Vietnamese government.

While fuming South Vietnamese officers watched, the villagers jumped in front and back of vehicles deployed about 13 miles south of this coastal stronghold, preventing the weapons carriers and army units from moving.

Military sources said it was certain the villagers were about 85 per cent sympathizers of the Communist Viet Cong. No tough action was taken against them because of current Buddhist tension and fear of political exploitation by the Viet Cong.

The incident came as Buddhist leaders in Saigon scheduled protests against the Sunday ouster of Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh as chief of state by the ruling military junta.

U.S. advisers in the Tuy Hoa area said the demonstration was the first of its kind in their sector and other sources said the action apparently heralded a significant new Viet Cong tactic. Some of the villagers placed their bodies in front of treads of armored personnel carriers, stalling the armored unit, which was a little below company strength, during vital hours of an operation by a division of government troops.

In Saigon, a Buddhist leader assailed president Nguyen Khanh on the first anniversary of South Viet Nam's bloody Pagoda raids.

Addressing a rally of 4,000 Buddhist youths, the leader, Tich Tan Chau, criticized Khanh's assumption of additional power.

The rally was in commemoration of last year's pagoda raids against Buddhists by police under orders from the late president Ngo Dinh Diem.

Anxious to avoid an outbreak, police did not interfere during the rally and it ended without incident. But several Buddhist high school teachers said during the rally they were invited to

UN Cyprus Force May be Withdrawn

Lack of Funds Cited by Thant

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — UN Secretary-General U Thant said today he might have to withdraw the UN peace force from Cyprus soon if it does not get more financial support.

At a press conference Thant was asked whether the force of 6,500 troops, police and medical personnel from nine countries would pull out of Cyprus when its six-month term expires Sept. 26.

He replied that he still lacked $2,000,000 in financial pledges from UN members necessary to make up the $12,730,000 needed to run the force for the six months.

"If such support is not forthcoming in the immediate future," he said, "it would appear necessary that the force may have to be withdrawn even before Sept. 26."

Canada is paying the cost of its own 1,130-man contingent in the Cyprus force. This is expected to amount to about $3,000,000 over the six-month period. Diplomatic sources said Canada has not been asked to make any additional contribution.

Thant said the UN mediator for Cyprus, Sakari S. Tuomioja of Finland, was stricken just when, for the first time, he had reported a "ray of hope" that he would be able to settle the Cyprus problem in his talks with Greece, Turkey and other countries.

Tuomioja suffered a stroke Sunday and is in hospital in Geneva.

The Secretary-General said the mediation efforts "will have to go forward." He added, "it is my intention to take such steps as future developments may require," but he denied reports that he has named a mediator or acting mediator to succeed Tuomioja.

The smoothly synchronized operation was over within 20 minutes. Not a shot was fired, although a brief scuffle developed between the UN troops and an angry delegation of about a half-dozen Turkish-Cypriots.

The raid was the first move by a special international group known as the Delta Force, commanded by Maj. John Beament of Ottawa, an officer of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

The force is an armored infantry group with supporting weapons comprising men of the Finnish, Danish and Canadian UN contingents. Its exact strength was withheld by the UN for security reasons, but it was disclosed that an entire company of Finnish troops participated today with smaller groups of Danish and Canadian soldiers.

Destruction of the posts was ordered by Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian commander of the UN force.

New Turkish Flights Protested by Greece

ATHENS (AP) — Greece protested today to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the United Nations and Turkey that Turkish war planes violated air space over the Greek islands of Samos and Rhodes Wednesday night.

Defence Minister Peter Garofalias told reporters two Turkish jets flew repeatedly over the islands just off the Turkish coast.

Garofalias said the flights came after Greece had been given assurances by Ankara that flights over Greek and Cypriot air-space would be halted.

It was the second report of Turkish flights over Greek soil in 10 days. The first concerned alleged flights over Crete and Rhodes Aug. 12.

Flag Pact Hinted Nearer

OTTAWA (CP) — A 70-minute meeting of party leaders ended today with agreement to meet again Friday. Optimism was expressed by some of the leaders that a compromise will be agreed to in the current parliamentary stalemate.

Conservative Opposition Leader Diefenbaker declined comment on the meeting beyond saying that the party leaders would confer again Friday on the flag issue.

New Democratic Leader Douglas and Social Credit Leader Thompson said today's conference in Prime Minister Pearson's office discussed a number of proposals which seem to be grounds for a settlement.

Creditist Leader Caouette joined them in saying he too is optimistic about the outcome.

When the three leaders of the smaller parties left Mr. Pearson's office beyond Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Douglas became the principal spokesman.

A number of suggestions had been "tossed around" by the leaders, Mr. Douglas said.

"We haven't got to the stage where we can say there is a major compromise. We have been discussing a number of possibilities."

"I am slightly more optimistic. I think we have got closer together on one or two points. Whether the proposals will commend themselves to the various parties, this remains to be seen."

Richard O'Hagan, Mr. Pearson's press secretary, said Friday's meeting would be held at 11:30 a.m. EDT. He said it was expected this would be the concluding meeting after which Mr. Pearson would make a fairly complete statement.

It was the second meeting of the leaders this week.

It convened with the flag debate about to enter its 12th day in the Commons in an atmosphere charged with accusations of filibuster and ultimatum.

In Wednesday's debate, MPs showed as much concern for public reaction to the flag debate as for the issue itself.

The debate tally so far: 85 speeches. The breakdown shows 50 Progressive Conservatives, 21 Liberals, five New Democrats, five Social Crediters and four Creditists.

This is a sample of the kind of "soul-searching the House heard:

Andrew Brewin (NDP-Toronto Greenwood): "Once the main issues have been made clear, continuation of debate on such an emotional subject can only serve to cause bitterness, and what is perhaps equally bad, boredom and irritation about the whole subject."

Steve Otto (L-York East): "We have turned this great debate into an internal palace dialogue which only we can understand. We have left the people of Canada completely on the outside and they have now lost patience with us. . . . We are going to lose their respect, as they have lost respect for this House."

RN FRIGATE CHASES YACHT FOR ROBBER

LONDON (AP) — A frigate of the Royal Navy sped out of port today with orders to stop a stolen yacht which may be carrying one of the escaped great train robbers.

The frigate HMS Russell, a 1,650-ton anti-submarine vessel, was sent at full speed from her berth near Glasgow. Search planes flew from ports along the Irish Sea, and a submarine cruising in the area got orders to keep her periscope up for the missing yacht.

No official word yet says sure that the yacht was carrying Charles Frederick Wilson, one of the robbers who escaped from prison a week ago.

Unusual Security

Modern 'Torture' For Robbers

LONDON (AP) — Author Graham Greene today accused the British penal system of imposing something akin to torture on the jailed gangsters who staged the Great Train Robbery.

"A great deal is written about prison life in Communist countries," said Greene in a letter to the London Daily Telegraph. "Now we learn that in our own out-of-date overcrowded prisons, a man can suffer solitary confinement for an indefinite time, except for a brief period each day when he is distinguished from his fellow prisoners by a distinctive dress; that he sleeps if he can, in a cell with an ever-burning light observed by wardens every 15 minutes."

The unusual security precautions against members of the gang were disclosed last week following the escape from prison of Charles Frederick Wilson, one of the 12 jailed for last August's £2,600,000 ($7,800,000) haul in banknotes from the Glasgow - London mail train. Most of the loot has not been recovered and Wilson like the rest of the gang was being held in a maximum security cell.

SOMEBODY OUT TO GET PHILHARMONIC

'Mafia At Work in Music World'

LONDON (AP) — A discordant note echoed over Britain today as the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra defied a government order to shed its "royal" designation.

Along with the refusal came charges of a plot to kill off the orchestra, one of the world's finest.

"There is an attempt to do the music world," one musician said.

The orchestra has had a difficult time since the death of its wealthy and talented founder,

Sir Thomas Beecham, four years ago.

Last year it split with management under Beecham's widow and the musicians set out to manage themselves as a co-operative. At the same time their link was severed with the Royal Philharmonic Society.

Then Home Secretary Henry Brooke told the orchestra it could no longer use the title "royal." Philharmonic management replied:

"The orchestra's existence depends on the name. It would be irresponsible for the company to acquiesce in the destruction of the orchestra on other than artistic grounds."

Orchestra members insist that the word royal gives a big boost to the orchestra's selling power, especially in overseas markets for recordings.

Holland charged that underlying Brooke's demand was an intrigue among musicians to seize the Royal Philharmonic Society's influence behind other orchestras.

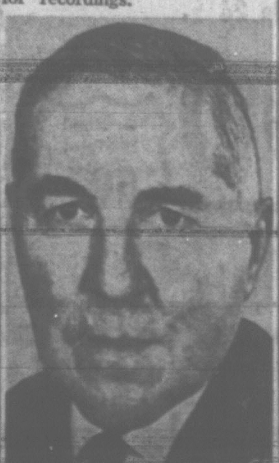

The society is an amateur body which runs a choir and sponsors concerts.

Kevin Holland, one of the management, said:

"We have engagements stretching more than two years ahead. All these are threatened if we have to drop royal from our title."

Holland charged that underlying Brooke's demand was an intrigue among musicians to seize the Royal Philharmonic Society's influence behind other orchestras.

The society is an amateur body which runs a choir and sponsors concerts.

LYNN, Mass.—Ted, a big brown dog with a grudge against cars, took a swipe at a police cruiser Wednesday and came away with a seven-foot strip of chrome trim.

Policemen John Peterson and James Cheever said a dog lunged at the moving cruiser. They slowed down, then heard a snapping sound.

The officers stopped the car when they saw the dog running down the street with the chrome strip in his mouth. They gave chase on foot, caught the culprit and learned his identity from the license tag.

Owner Frank Ciani said his pet has no special grudge against police cruisers—just against all cars since one ran over him some time ago.

CARPENTER, Wyo.—Sign at an abandoned farm on the wind-blown plains east of Cheyenne: "No trespassing. Survivors will be prosecuted."

INDIANAPOLIS—Lawyer Joseph Woods has filed a $125 damage claim against the city charging a policeman scratched his auto while writing out a traffic ticket. Woods said a ring worn by Patrolman William Clark nicked his windshield.

DUNDEE—City authorities decided Wednesday to ban Saturday afternoon funerals because ministers are too busy conducting Saturday weddings. The action was taken after ministers complained they have to "spend Saturday racing between cemeteries and churches" because of the continuing increase in Saturday weddings.

TOKYO—Japanese authorities are trying to discourage Tokyo males from wandering about publicly in their underwear for fear of the effect it might have on the tourist trade.

The problem has arisen because of a heat wave and the excellent air conditioning at the recently refurbished Tokyo International Airport.

Reports say hundreds of men have been flocking to the airport terminal clad only in underpants, undershirt and sandals. There they relax in the cool lounges, oblivious to the stares of foreigners.

BARCELONA, Spain—Painter Salvador Dali, whose works command high prices, is doing a new one called "Dedication of the Dollar." Dali told the news agency Logos that the painting will be "just dollars and more dollars." The agency predicted it would be his most expensive work.

TORONTO—More or Less Honest Manufacturing Company has been registered as a new unincorporated business at Osgoode Hall, a company spokesman announced Wednesday.

The spokesman said the concern will be a distributor, with its first product being Less brand cigarettes. The company was registered by David Griff, Samuel Markle, Jack Markle and Irvin Pitch, all Toronto business men.

Samuel Markle said the idea for the company and its first product could be summed up in the slogan "if you can't quit, smoke Less." He said the distribution of other products will follow.

thern): "This ill-fated Parliament, borne of minorities and intrigues, is witnessing another of those acts of carelessness which so vividly portray the petulance of the present prime minister. . . . This (is) one of the most unproductive Parliaments in Canadian history."

NO CHANGE SIGHTED

None of the three speeches gave any inkling of a change in party positions on the issue itself. The Liberals stand behind the flag with three maple leaves. The Conservatives want a plebiscite. The NDP favors a single maple leaf.

In a flare-up during the question period, before the flag debate began, Prime Minister Pearson said the government wants a parliamentary recess after the flag issue is settled, then it would proceed with the Canada Pension Plan.

However, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker sought assurance that the pension legislation will be dealt with immediately after the flag resolution is "disposed of."

"If he does, we will be behind him on the pension legislation 100 per cent," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Pearson said he would be happy to give that assurance. If Mr. Diefenbaker would "give me an assurance that we will be finished with the flag resolution in time to deal with the pension legislation."

ASKS LIMIT

Mr. Pearson added that the government would be ready to go ahead if the Conservatives "will only agree to some reasonable time limit" on the flag debate.

Still later, Mr. Pearson said

the pension legislation is being drafted and will be ready for the Commons "as soon as my right hon. friend (Mr. Diefenbaker) will agree to put an end to the filibuster on the flag resolution."

Mr. Nasserden said the prime minister has thrust the flag resolution into a "divisive atmosphere" in Canada.

He was "contemptuously seeking to drive the wedge of division even to the point of an election, if necessary."

"This is one of the most shameful manoeuvres ever undertaken by a Canadian prime minister. It is also the single most irresponsible action in Canadian history ever given priority over urgent domestic issues."

CALLS IT DIATRIBE

James Byrne (L.—Kootenay East) later accused Mr. Nasserden of directing a "diabolical diatribe" at Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Otto said no flag will divide a nation not already divided: "nor will it unite a nation which prefers to live in separate solitudes."

The Liberals didn't expect that so many people would be entrenched behind the Red Ensign, he said.

"It is because they are afraid and have gathered under the ensign in fear and apprehension of one thing—the division of this nation."

The ensign had become the banner for English-speaking reaction. Separatism was not the clamor of most people in Quebec, MPs knew that—but those who relied on newspapers and radio for their information did not know it.

It was Parliament's duty to state that unity would be preserved. Then the support behind the Red Ensign would fall.

WARN OF DEMONSTRATION

Buddhist monks said if the teachers are detained, massive demonstrations would probably be held in front of police headquarters.

Trouble was anticipated in the central Vietnamese city of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, where Buddhist demonstrations and a torchlight parade were scheduled tonight and Friday.

Authorities in the Hue area sought to meet the Buddhists half-way by declaring Friday a holiday with time off for Buddhist soldiers and officials.

Khanh, a Buddhist, had ordered his armed forces to avoid entanglement with political and religious groups. He also warned students to stick to their books rather than demonstrations, or they might find themselves in the army.

VOICE FEAR

At the Saigon rally, Chau praised Khanh and Minh for ousting Diem last November. But Buddhist leaders have voiced fear that Khanh, now that he has pushed Minh into the background, may create a regime similar to that of Diem. Students attending the rally carried banners which claimed:

"The Buddhist faith is still being oppressed and the struggle must go on."

Students openly denounced alleged U.S. interference in the internal affairs of South Vietnam, charging that Khanh had assumed total power at the instigation of the U.S.

Meanwhile, in Manila, Admiral U. S. Grant Sharp—commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific—said today there are no indications that the Communists are mounting a major offensive against South Vietnam in the wake of the Tonkin Gulf incidents.

He told a press conference that President Khanh is "getting things organized and as time goes on, we'll see some improvement."

North Viet Nam said it has asked the UN Security Council to brand the United States as the aggressor in the Tonkin Gulf incidents of Aug. 25.

A broadcast by Radio Hanoi today said North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Xuan Thuy made the request in a message to Sivert Nielsen of Norway, president of the Security Council.

The message said the American-North Vietnamese clash was "provoked by the U.S. government" and was "part of a prearranged scheme."

University Appointment For Officer

Wing Commander Jean Archambault, 51, of Victoria, has been appointed administrator of student affairs at University of Ottawa.

An announcement today said the step aims at greater involvement of laymen in senior positions at the bilingual Catholic university.

A resident of Victoria for the past two years, W/C Archambault is former chief staff officer of 5 Air Division, disbanded several months ago.

The new administrator is himself bilingual.

"I know I'll enjoy the work. The only sad part is that I'll be away from Victoria for so long at a time," he said.

His post, opening at the beginning of September, will normally be occupied for eight months of the year.

Meanwhile, he will maintain his home and family in Victoria.

Stay In School NES Manager Warns Students

A plea for youngsters to continue as long as possible with their studies was made today by National Employment Office manager George Bevis.

"It is a very tragic thing," he said, "to see a young person who is capable of better things become dissatisfied and quit school to earn a laborer's wages."

"Many of them have every intention of going back to school after they have earned a stake or bought the car they wanted, but very few of them ever do."

"Consequently they find themselves trapped in a level of employment with very little chance of breaking out."

LITTLE CONTINUITY

"They can find work fairly readily while they have their youth and vigor, but even so they are in a group where the continuity of work is never very good. It is also a group for which the demand is steadily decreasing as automation increases," Mr. Bevis said.

He suggested parents join teachers in considering a student's potential, then encourage utmost application until his capacity is reached.

Not only is work continuity best for those with higher educational qualifications, but today's increasingly technical work requires at least Grade 12 for apprenticeship in the manual trades, the manager said.

Stolen Poppies Lead Police to Opium Case

A man charged with possessing opium poppies changed his plea to guilty in city police court today after an RCMP constable read a confession to the court.

Melvin Essihos, 1120 Burdett, listened while one statement he was alleged to have made was ruled inadmissible, then asked Magistrate William Ostler if he could change his plea when a written confession was read into evidence.

Essihos was charged after former Oak Bay reeve George Murdoch complained of a man stealing poppies from his garden at 2240 Beach Drive on July 25.

Crown prosecutor George Gregory said he is not asking for a heavy sentence.

NARCOTIC NEEDED

He said Essihos suffers from an excruciating skin condition for which he is prescribed demerol, a narcotic, and said Essihos is "an unfortunate case."

RCMP Constable D. K. Wilkie testified. Essihos told him he wasn't sure if he'd picked the right kind of poppies.

He said Essihos confessed he planned to boil the poppy heads to get a kind of tea to drink.

Essihos was arrested the same day Mr. Murdoch complained of the man picking poppies from his garden.

Cons. R. W. Faith arrested him after finding a bag of poppy heads near where he had questioned the man.

An analyst's certificate was introduced certifying the poppy heads contained morphine.

Mr. Gregory read Essihos' record to the court. It went back to 1943 and included convictions for auto theft, narcotics possession, forging a prescription for narcotics, and theft under $50.

Essihos will be sentenced Aug. 28 after a probation report which he had requested is prepared.

Mid-Ocean Rendezvous For Suds II

Victoria-based deepsea tug Sudbury II is expected to rendezvous with the disabled Greek freighter Atlantic Sun at 9 p.m. today.

The freighter lost her propeller a week ago on the 49th parallel and the International Dateline.

Since then she has been watched over by sister ships Atlantic Governor and Atlantic Grace.

The Atlantic Governor has towed the propellerless ship 700 miles toward the west coast since she took over from the fully-loaded Atlantic Grace Monday.

An Island Tug and Barge spokesman said today the Sudbury II will attach a line to the stricken freighter tonight if weather conditions permit. The tug left Victoria Saturday and was forced to buck a stiff westerly gale.

Her 1,500-mile tow job will end in Vancouver.

Libel Suit Rejected

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Judge Stephen Chandler dismissed Wednesday a $1,000,000 libel suit filed by former U.S. Army Maj.-Gen. Edwin A. Walker against Newsweek magazine and an Oklahoma City distributor.

Cmdr. Carle joined the navy in 1943, became a gunnery specialist and has served as commanding officer of the minesweeper Chaleur.

Immediately prior to his appointment here, he was on staff at naval headquarters in Ottawa.

Mr. Pearson added that the government would be ready to go ahead if the Conservatives "will only agree to some reasonable time limit" on the flag debate.

Still later, Mr. Pearson said

the pension legislation is being drafted and will be ready for the Commons "as soon as my right hon. friend (Mr. Diefenbaker) will agree to put an end to the filibuster on the flag resolution."

Mr. Nasserden said the prime minister has thrust the flag resolution into a "divisive atmosphere" in Canada.

He was "contemptuously seeking to drive the wedge of division even to the point of an election, if necessary."

"This is one of the most shameful manoeuvres ever undertaken by a Canadian prime minister. It is also the single most irresponsible action in Canadian history ever given priority over urgent domestic issues."

CALLS IT DIATRIBE

James Byrne (L.—Kootenay East) later accused Mr. Nasserden of directing a "diabolical diatribe" at Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Otto said no flag will divide a nation not already divided; "nor will it unite a nation which prefers to live in separate solitudes."

The Liberals didn't expect that so many people would be entrenched behind the Red Ensign, he said.

"It is because they are afraid and have gathered under the ensign in fear and apprehension of one thing—the division of this nation."

The ensign had become the banner for English-speaking reaction. Separatism was not the clamor of most people in Quebec, MPs knew that—but those who relied on newspapers and radio for their information did not know it.

It was Parliament's duty to state that unity would be preserved. Then the support behind the Red Ensign would fall.

WARN OF DEMONSTRATION

Buddhist monks said if the teachers are detained, massive demonstrations would probably be held in front of police headquarters.

Trouble was anticipated in the central Vietnamese city of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, where Buddhist demonstrations and a torchlight parade were scheduled tonight and Friday.

Authorities in the Hue area sought to meet the Buddhists half-way by declaring Friday a holiday with time off for Buddhist soldiers and officials.

Khanh, a Buddhist, had ordered his armed forces to avoid entanglement with political and religious groups. He also warned students to stick to their books rather than demonstrations, or they might find themselves in the army.

VOICE FEAR

At the Saigon rally, Chau praised Khanh and Minh for ousting Diem last November. But Buddhist leaders have voiced fear that Khanh, now that he has pushed Minh into the background, may create a regime similar to that of Diem. Students attending the rally carried banners which claimed:

"The Buddhist faith is still being oppressed and the struggle must go on."

Students openly denounced alleged U.S. interference in the internal affairs of South Vietnam, charging that Khanh had assumed total power at the instigation of the U.S.

Meanwhile, in Manila, Admiral U. S. Grant Sharp—commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific—said today there are no indications that the Communists are mounting a major offensive against South Vietnam in the wake of the Tonkin Gulf incidents.

He told a press conference that President Khanh is "getting things organized and as time goes on, we'll see some improvement."

North Viet Nam said it has asked the UN Security Council to brand the United States as the aggressor in the Tonkin Gulf incidents of Aug. 23.

A broadcast by Radio Hanoi today said North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Xuan Thuy made the request in a message to Sivert Nielsen of Norway, president of the Security Council.

The message said the American-North Vietnamese clash was "provoked by the U.S. government" and was "part of a prearranged scheme."

ARCHAMBAULT

University Appointment For Officer

Wing Commander Jean Archambault, 51, of Victoria, has been appointed administrator of student affairs at University of Ottawa.

An announcement today said the step aims at greater involvement of laymen in senior positions at the bilingual Catholic university.

A resident of Victoria for the past two years, W/C Archambault is former chief staff officer of 5 Air Division, disbanded several months ago.

The new administrator is himself bilingual.

"I know I'll enjoy the work. The only sad part is that I'll be away from Victoria for so long at a time," he said.

His post, opening at the beginning of September, will normally be occupied for eight months of the year.

Meanwhile, he will maintain his home and family in Victoria.

Stay In School NES Manager Warns Students

A plea for youngsters to continue as long as possible with their studies was made today by National Employment Office manager George Bevis.

"It is a very tragic thing," he said, "to see a young person who is capable of better things become dissatisfied and quit school to earn a laborer's wages."

"Many of them have every intention of going back to school after they have earned a stake or bought the car they wanted, but very few of them ever do."

"Consequently they find themselves trapped in a level of employment with very little chance of breaking out."

LITTLE CONTINUITY

"They can find work fairly readily while they have their youth and vigor, but even as they are in a group where the continuity of work is never very good. It is also a group for which the demand is steadily decreasing as automation increases," Mr. Bevis said.

He suggested parents join teachers in considering a student's potential, then encourage utmost application until his capacity is reached.

Not only is work continuity best for those with higher educational qualifications, but today's increasingly technical work requires at least Grade 12 for apprenticeship in the manual trades, the manager said.

Mrs. Ghandi Elected

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Mrs. Indira Ghandi, daughter of the late prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru, today was elected unopposed to the Council of States, the Indian Parliament's upper house—her first legislative post.

Stolen Poppies Lead Police to Opium Case

A man charged with possessing opium poppies changed his plea to guilty in city police court today after an RCMP constable read a confession to the court.

Melvin Esashos, 1120 Burdett, listened while one statement he was alleged to have made was ruled inadmissible, then asked Magistrate William Ostler if he could change his plea when a written confession was read into evidence.

Esashos was charged after former Oak Bay reeve George Murdoch complained of a man stealing poppies from his garden at 2240 Beach Drive on July 25.

Crown prosecutor George Gregory said he is not asking for a heavy sentence.

NARCOTIC NEEDED

He said Esashos suffers from an excruciating skin condition for which he is prescribed demerol, a narcotic, and said Esashos is "an unfortunate case."

RCMP Constable D. K. Wilkie testified Esashos told him he wasn't sure if he'd picked the right kind of poppies.

He said Esashos confessed he planned to boil the poppy heads to get a kind of tea to drink.

Esashos was arrested the same day Mr. Murdoch complained of the man picking poppies from his garden.

Cons. R. W. Faith arrested him after finding a bag of poppy heads near where he had questioned the man.

An analyst's certificate was introduced certifying the poppy heads contained morphine.

Mr. Gregory read Esashos' record to the court. It went back to 1943 and included convictions for auto theft, narcotics possession, forging a prescription for narcotics, and theft under $50.

Esashos will be sentenced Aug. 28 after a probation report which he had requested is prepared.

Mid-Ocean Rendezvous For Suds II

Victoria-based deepsea tug Sudbury II is expected to rendezvous with the disabled Greek freighter Atlantic Sun at 9 p.m. today.

The freighter lost her propeller a week ago on the 49th parallel and the International Dateline.

Since then she has been watched over by sister ships Atlantic Governor and Atlantic Grace.

The Atlantic Governor has towed the propellerless ship 700 miles toward the west coast since she took over from the fully-loaded Atlantic Grace Monday.

An Island Tug and Barge spokesman said today the Sudbury II will attach a line to the stricken freighter tonight if weather conditions permit.

The tug left Victoria Saturday and was forced to buck a stiff westerly gale.

Libel Suit Rejected

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Judge Stephen Chandler dismissed Wednesday a $1,000,000 libel suit filed by former U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker against Newsweek magazine and an Oklahoma City distributor.

Walker, who has been appointed to the staff of HMCS Niagara in Washington, D.C.

Cmdr. Carle joined the navy in 1943, became a gunnery specialist and has served as commanding officer of the minesweeper Chaleur.

AIRLINER CRASHES, 37 WALK OUT UNHURT

TONOPAH, Nev. (UPI)—A twin-engine DC3 airliner carrying 37 persons to a Nevada gambling resort crashed Wednesday night while attempting an emergency landing in a dry southern Nevada lakebed, but all aboard survived.

Rick Blakemoor, manager of the local airport, called it "fantastic" that there were no fatalities in the crash.

"The plane hit on one wing, shearing it off," he said. "Both engines were knocked loose by the impact. It was fantastic that nobody was killed. The plane wound up on its back with the tail sticking up in the air, but the passengers just walked out the door."

INTERNATIONAL PARK

'Very Symbol Of Friendship'

CAMPOBELLO ISLAND, N.B. (UPI)—The first ladies of Canada and the United States joined hands today to dedicate this former summer home of Franklin D. Roosevelt as the world's first international park.

Under crisp blue skies, Mrs. Lester B. Pearson, wife of the Canadian prime minister, and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the U.S. president, formally opened the 10.5-acre park as a symbol of Canadian-American friendship and a tribute to its late occupant.

Mrs. Johnson termed the park "a witness to our unforgotten boundaries and to our friendship with our generous Canadian neighbors."

Mrs. Pearson noting that Roosevelt's summer home here on the Maine-New Brunswick border had given him strong Canadian ties, recalled listening to his wartime fireside chats and "how I prayed that his voice would be heard with understanding and ultimately with accord."

New Brunswick Premier Louis Robichaud, who also took part in the opening ceremonies, said the new park would serve as "the very symbol of the friendship of our two nations."

FITTING MEMORIAL

Some 400 diplomats and other dignitaries from both nations were on hand for the ceremony, completing agreement on establishing the park first reached in a June, 1963, meeting between Pearson and the late President John F. Kennedy. Legislation since has been passed by both countries to set up a park commission and to formally accept an offer from the Hammer family which purchased the estate following the death of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

In a message sent from Ottawa to Washington to mark the ceremonies, Pearson told President Johnson "how very happy" he was that the park had become a reality.

"I feel certain, as I know you do, that this memorial is a most fitting one, and will be a further visible link between our two countries," Pearson said.

Mrs. Johnson flew here from Washington this morning to an arrival complete with a band playing "Yellow Rose of Texas" in honor of her home state. She toured the Roosevelt estate before joining Mrs. Pearson, who came from Ottawa late Wednesday, at the official ceremonies.

Mrs. Rockefeller Lost Custody of Children

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller lost custody of her four children when she divorced her first husband to marry the New York Governor. This was disclosed in court Wednesday as she fought to get them back.

The first husband, James S. Murphy, has since remarried.

The disclosure that Murphy had been granted custody of the children was made by his lawyer, Vincent J. Malone, in contesting Mrs. Rockefeller's suit.

The four children continued to live in New York City with Murphy.

MEATMEN'S STRIKE

Boycott Letter Stirring Storm

The bitter 15-month meatcutters' strike at the Alberta Meat Market was stirred up again at a Victoria Labor Council meeting on Wednesday evening.

Delegates erupted after hearing a letter from lawyers Pearlman and Lindholm, counsel for the meat market, saying a "flagrant violation" of the Trades Union Act had been committed by the Ladies' Auxiliary Local 782.

"I feel the Alberta Meat Market and Mr. (E. E.) Pearlman must be pretty desperate to pick on ladies," said E. T. Staley.

The letter said the violation had been committed in connection with a circular letter sent to the wives of union members describing the meatcutters' strike and calling on wives not to patronize the market or its outlets.

The Pearlman and Lindholm letter said full consideration is being given to further action.

Only in British Columbia, said meatcutters' union secretary George Johnston, can it happen that:

"... a citizens' group communicating facts with each other but only within their own group can, in effect, be threatened by a lawyer for having told the truth about a legal strike."

FREE SPEECH?

"If Mr. Pearlman thinks he can control the gabble of women across a fence, he's a fool," said delegate John Nichol, of the Wholesale and Retail Clerks Union.

"The Trade Union Act curtails freedom of speech," said Mr. Staley.

"I think we ought to commend the women for their interest."

The strike started May 7, 1963, after market proprietor John Williams rejected conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin's recommendation he sign an area agreement.

It has since turned into one of the longest strikes in Vancouver Island's history, and is the first time in B.C. that meatcutters have gone on strike.

Victoria's Mayor R. B. Wilson indicated some time ago the city may intervene and attempt to settle the strike.

Arcadia Brings Stricken Seaman Into Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The P. and O.-Orient liner Arcadia arrived in Vancouver Wednesday night carrying a seriously ill seaman who was picked up from a United States freighter in the Pacific.

The seaman, identified as George Broussard of New Orleans, took aboard the freighter Frederick Lykes, was transferred to hospital here when the Arcadia docked.

The nature of his illness was not disclosed but his condition was described as serious.

The Arcadia was en route from Hawaii to Vancouver when she received a message from the U.S. Coast Guard asking help for the freighter's cook. She diverted from course to pick him up and bring him here.

Three Dead In North

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Three northern-affairs department employees were found dead Tuesday in a marooned motorboat on Hudson Bay 72 miles north of Churchill. They were believed to be victims of carbon monoxide poisoning.

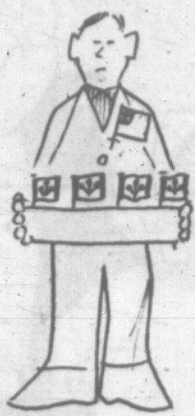

Dead are Oddie Borjorn Johnson, 59, department area administrator at Eskimo Point, and two Eskimos, Alex Gibbons, 23, assistant administrator and translator, and Rene Aggark, 46, a department laborer at Eskimo Point.

Mountain View Site Next for High Rise?

Oak Bay council is considering an application from the city to have the Mountain View Home site on Cadboro Bay Road rezoned for apartment building, not to exceed eight storeys.

The property, which belongs to the city, is the site of an old man's home demolished earlier this year. The city is reported to have an offer of $100,000 for the property if Oak Bay council can be persuaded to rezone it for apartment building.

JUDGE SEEKS CLEMENCY FOR AGED BOOTLEGGER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Magistrate Cyril White said Wednesday if a cabinet clemency appeal fails for a 75-year-old convicted bootlegger, he will "strongly urge" parole for the man immediately he is sentenced.

The court's concern was directed at Simon Nielson, a pensioner who was found guilty of selling a bottle of liquor April 26 to an undercover detective for $3.25.

Nielson, a diabetic who suffers eye trouble and requires a cane to walk, admitted a previous bootlegging conviction in 1960.

Under the government Liquor Act, a magistrate must impose a minimum six-month or maximum 12-month sentence against a second offender. The sentence must be served at hard labor.

"It's surprising to me that a government as progressive as we have in this province would allow such a penalty section to remain on the statutes," Magistrate White said.

He remanded Nielson to Sept. 18 for sentence and instructed a lawyer to request cabinet clemency for the man.

Anti-Hoffa Rumblings Grow in Rank-and-File

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nearly 500 Teamsters Union members went to court against Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa Wednesday in the first open sign of large scale rank-and-file revolt since Hoffa's two federal court convictions.

The large group of Teamsters from nine locals filed a petition asking to join a suit already on file, seeking recovery of all union funds spent to defend Hoffa and all other union officials involved in criminal trials.

The civil suit was filed several months ago by six members of Philadelphia Local 107.

It charges violation of a federal labor law provision requiring that union funds be spent solely for the benefit of the union.

Kevin P. Charles, counsel for the larger group, said both groups seek to oust Hoffa but that his clients feel their action would help move the case a little faster and indicate broader support within the union.

Meanwhile, the Teamsters' ruling executive board convened in Miami for the first time since Hoffa's jury tampering and fraud convictions and is expected to take up the question of Hoffa's mounting legal fees.

Lawyers in the suit filed here have estimated some $3,000,000 in union funds may be involved in legal fees paid out for Hoffa and a number of other union officials in the last several years. Some sources say Hoffa's bills alone amount to about $1,000,000.

The suit is against not only Hoffa, but all 14 other members of the executive board.

DEMAND RESIGNATION

The internal squabble over legal fees has led one board member, vice-president John B. Backus of Philadelphia, to demand Hoffa's resignation.

Despite this and other signs of anti-Hoffa rumblings from within the executive board, Hoffa has continued to maintain the union is solidly behind him and that reports to the contrary are invented by the press.

But he said he would voluntarily stop using union funds to pay his legal bills until the board settles the matter.

After a meeting of the union's executive board in Miami Wednesday, Hoffa told reporters "there has been no revolt" against his leadership "and there will be no revolt."

"I am the elected president and there has been no opposition to my leadership," he said.

Who Gives? Who Takes?

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS MINISTER Dan Campbell has suggested top priority for a unified sewer system to the joint services study group holding its inaugural meeting today.

The minister expresses the belief that a system can be worked out without any extra cost to the taxpayers. Those adequately served will continue to pay their rates and those requiring service will presumably meet their obligations.

"There will be some give-and-take on voting representation and a cost-sharing formula," he predicts.

This is an encouraging outlook, reflecting confidence in a new arrangement widely commended by those who foresee general community benefit from co-ordinated regional work in various fields.

It might be wise for the minister, however, to include in his list of high priority subjects the question of "give-and-take." Who gives how much and who expects to take what?

This is one of the problems of a mini-metro which requires early solution. It is, moreover, a factor in the new arrangement which should receive strong and considerable leadership from its sponsor, the minister, and the government he represents.

A number of co-ordinated services depend for their successful and equitable existence on the use of facilities already in being. Those facilities have been financed or are being financed by users who, in the process of payment, have established important assets. How are those assets to be assessed in the "give-and-take" of cost-sharing for expanded use?

Sewers already laid, for instance, may be adequate to serve the areas for which they were designed. If they are to carry sewage from branch lines beyond that area they may have to be enlarged. But the original users may be no better served by a larger sewer than they were with one tailored to suit their needs. Who pays the extra?

Establishment of joint services has been applauded widely in principle. Soon we must get down to details. No detail will command greater interest than the price tag on various projects and the addresses to which the bills are sent.

More Car-Miles, More Accidents

TRAFFIC SAFETY OFFICIALS in many parts of the country in recent months have been reporting with some puzzlement and considerable distress that motor vehicle accident rates have shown a staggering increase this year over previous years.

In this province the statistical section of the Motor Vehicles Branch has been unable to keep up with the flood of accidents and in other provinces increases in accidents ranging from 25 per cent to 50 per cent over last year have been recorded.

But surely there is no reason for the officials to be in the least mystified by the higher toll of injuries, deaths and property damage on the nation's streets and highways. It is only necessary to look at the twin factors of record auto sales over the past two years and the greater amount of leisure time enjoyed by most Canadians to see that the major cause of higher accident rates is higher traffic density. Recent statistics, for instance, show that one out of 10 Canadian families now owns at least two cars; last year alone the number of Canadian two-car families were increased by about 41,000.

We have seen no statistics on the increase of personnel in traffic regulating organizations compared with the increase in motor vehicle registrations across the country but, judging from local observation, it is probably fair to surmise that traffic law enforcement must be falling behind. This surmise is particularly likely to hold true in view of the fact that the two-car family generates more than double the traffic density of the one-car family due to use of the second vehicle by several members of the family.

The attack on the rapidly rising traffic accident toll can be made in several ways. One is the mechanical approach — better engineered road systems with more sophisticated traffic guidance systems along with more rigid safety checks of individual vehicles. It is interesting to note on the latter point that the voluntary tests conducted in Victoria by the new mobile vehicle testing station showed that one-third of the cars tested on the first day were found to be defective in one way or another.

The educational approach to traffic safety is being stepped up by government and private organizations in response to the increased accident rate and there is no doubt that it is effective to a degree, particularly among the more responsible drivers of the country. The failure of traffic safety education, however, seems to lie in the fact that those most in need of it are precisely those who are most likely to reject it.

In the final analysis, if any worthwhile progress is to be made in holding down the traffic accident toll, the main burden will fall on law enforcement agencies. Safety education, better roads, and mechanically sound vehicles will not halt the deaths and injuries so long as even a small minority of drivers can flout the laws with impunity as they now do. Strict traffic law enforcement is expensive in terms of hiring more men and providing more police vehicles, but it is cheap in terms of prevention of death and injury.

For Protection

IT WAS UNFORTUNATE THAT the Contributions for the Blind Act which was passed at the last sitting of the Legislature was never put into operation because of protests from a small section of persons who were opposed to it and some others who failed to understand the true intent of the measure.

It is true that the legislation gave wide powers to a three-man board which would grant or withhold approval for campaigns to raise funds for the benefit of the blind. But the object of the act was not to enforce restrictions on blind persons or bona fide fund raisers working for them. The whole intent of the act was to make it impossible for the phony appeals and gimmicks which take thousands of dollars a year out of this province to operate.

These devices — direct doorstep canvassing, "magazines for the blind" which contribute nothing to these afflicted people, or fly-by-night schemes designed to prey on the public's sympathy for blind persons — were a cause of great concern to the authorized agencies such as the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and the White Cane clubs.

They took money which should have gone to the aid of the blind, they brought discredit on legitimate appeals, they robbed the public of funds intended for proper purposes.

The legislation was supported by the CNIB and the White Cane clubs — in fact it was finally passed after years of urging by these bona fide agencies of the blind which include nearly all blind persons in their memberships.

To be effective, the legislation was framed so as to give full powers to the approval board. This roused fears in some quarters that the personal affairs of blind persons might suffer interference. Such was not the intention, of course, and it is to be hoped that the government will be able to allay these fears — if necessary by an amendment to the legislation which will provide safeguards without in any way curbing quick action against phony appeals.

It is to be noted, of course, that in Victoria no direct public appeals are made for funds for the blind. Such needs are taken care of by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, which obtains its local funds only through the annual Community Chest campaign.

We Hatch Litterbugs Too

THE GESTURE MADE BY local Jaycees in providing visiting tourists with "junior gobbler" litter bags is excellent. But it shouldn't stop there.

The tourists are by no means the only people who can make use of such containers to help keep British Columbia clean and green. We have our own domestic species of litter-bugs. They might be encouraged to outgrow that larval state into something of greater attraction if they, also, could be persuaded to accept and use the bags.

Is it feasible, as a public service, to have them distributed at local service stations to Greater Victoria residents for a cleaner if not greener Greater Victoria?

"First, the good things . . . You have an excellent cigarette lighter and three sound hubcaps . . ."

Berman, Victoria Daily Times.

FROM WASHINGTON

The Frontlash Counterbalances the Backlash

By JOSEPH ALSOP

IF THE present situation in New York is at all meaningful, the incessant talk about the so-called white backlash is unbalanced to the point of being grossly misleading. The thing exists, of course. About one New York Democrat in every 10 at present means to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater, mainly because of the feeling that the Negro drive for equal rights is going too far and too fast. So much is revealed by elaborate soundings taken here by Democrats as well as Republicans.

Because of the state's inherent importance, and also because of the complex New York senatorial problem, leaders of both parties have been testing New York opinion with nervous persistence. Since the results of the Democratic polls confirm the results obtained by the Republican pollsters, they can be taken as more than usually reliable—at any rate for the time being; for no poll is ever accurate except when it is taken.

Offsetting Losses
A potential loss of 10 per cent of the Democratic vote looks pretty grim for President Lyndon B. Johnson. But this threatened Democratic loss is more than counterbalanced by the threatened defection of around one-quarter of the Republican voters. The samples taken to date actually indicate that between 25 and 30 per cent of New York Republicans currently intend to leave their party to vote for the President.

A recent Republican test here shows that, as of now, the white backlash is more than cancelled by the "frontlash" (as the White House is said to call the Republican defection from Goldwater). Senator Goldwater also does poorly with the independents. Thus, President Johnson is now credited with a better than 60-to-40 lead in New York. And these are Republican figures, mind you.

Despite their Republican origin, the figures would be hard to credit if there were not two groups of strongly confirmatory facts. One group is composed of other poll results outside New York.

Enthusiastic Poll Patron
President Johnson is turning out to be almost as enthusiastic a patron of the polls as President John F. Kennedy was. Oliver Quayle, former partner of Louis Harris, has been doing the work for the White House. In the half-dozen states where Quayle has worked to date, he has not found Mr. Johnson with less than a 60-to-40 margin anywhere except Indiana.

Even in Indiana, reportedly, Johnson had a wide lead, despite the extra power of the white backlash in that state. If this seems hard to believe, consider the careful Iowa poll. This poll, wholly impartial, shows Mr. Johnson ahead in Iowa by more than two to one!

Or consider the straw poll taken in a corner of rural Kansas, showing Mr. Johnson with an approximate two-to-one lead among voters who had made up their minds, but also showing the very same Kansas voters giving their local Republican congressman just about a two-to-one lead over his Democratic opponent.

As for the second group of confirmatory facts, there are the background circumstances of the Republican harmony meeting at Hershey, Pa. At Gettysburg, before Hershey, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is known to have laid down strict conditions for giving his endorsement to the Goldwater candidacy. The Goldwater speech at Hershey and the Eisenhower comment on that speech were then drafted like linked communiques at the end of a summit meeting between hostile powers.

One must conclude, therefore, that Senator Goldwater had his own compelling reasons for wanting to wrap himself in the cloak of moderation at almost any cost. It is reasonable to guess, furthermore, that these compelling reasons were polls of his own, showing results not very different from the bi-partisan polls here in New York or from the other opinion tests above-cited.

At this juncture, however, it is above all important to note that these very facts make this election almost wholly unpredictable. No one can now say, to begin with, whether the Republican candidate will manage to keep his new cloak of moderation clutched close around him. If he does so, great numbers of Republican defectors will return to their party. But Goldwater's instinct, surely, will be to do the opposite.

Reaction to Violence

Again, the Democratic defectors may be confirmed in their intention to work for Goldwater by continuing Negro violence. But great numbers of them come from low-income groups whose members are particularly sensitive to such issues as Senator Goldwater's advocacy of right-to-work laws, the threat to prosperity of his deflationary fiscal policies and so on.

In short, with so many people in both parties now off the reservation, the actual course of the campaign will be 10 times more important than usual. One can only wait and see.

FROM NICOSIA

Putting on the Hero's Costume

By KENNETH MACKENZIE

"HALF a million people versus the rest of the world," a prominent Greek Cypriot proudly proclaimed with gesticulations of Hellenic defiance, which seemed to belong more to the world of comic opera than to the onset of a possible Armageddon.

The slogan can obviously be interpreted in different ways, but it gives the key to the Cypriot mentality in the present crisis.

In the next few weeks the world will be up against Cypriot mentality with a vengeance, for neither diplomatic arm-twisting nor the threat of Turkish air attacks is going to make President Makarios and his ministers budge an inch from their present positions.

Paradoxically the Turks might have been much more persuasive if they had called off their air strikes after attacks on military targets a week ago. That evening after this attack the Greeks were filled with fear and foreboding. On the following night, after attacks on villages, they were filled with hatred.

They are not thinking of solutions, but of revenge. To imagine they can be pressured into making concessions to the Turks, to get the whole wretched affair over and done with, is to live in a world of total unreality.

Shockingly Commonplace

The statement of the High Commissioner in London, that Cyprus will not compromise, even at the risk of a third world war, may have shocked the world, but this kind of talk is almost commonplace in Nicosia.

The Greeks, it has been remarked, can be extremely difficult when they are in the wrong and totally impossible when they are in the right.

The trouble is that, with their insular outlook, they are convinced they are in the right and, with the relentless logic of doctrinaire minds, coupled with the gambler's urge to try to win the lot, they do not see why they should make any concessions to the Turks.

Other minorities in democratic states do not have bases or cantonments, they argue.

It is going to be almost impossible to shift Greek Cypriot public opinion. At times during the past week, Cypriot suspicion of Western intentions has bordered on the pathological. Even moderates accuse Britain and the United States of being responsible for the Turkish attacks.

Eight days ago a small item was read in a Cyprus Broadcasting Corporation news bulletin which, whether by accident or design, will bedevil Cyprus relations with the West for a decade.

The United States had supplied Turkey with 24 jet aircraft to strengthen NATO defences, it said. American sources quickly pointed out that similar deliveries had been made to Greece and that the matter had been carried through some weeks previously—but the damage had been done.

Within hours the first Turkish strafing attack took place. Almost every Cypriot in the island believed it had been perpetrated by these same American jets on orders from Washington within minutes of the planes being delivered in Turkey. This allegation is being repeated incessantly in the local press as rumors about Anglo-American pilots spread with the wings of madness.

Any plan associated with Dean Acheson, President Johnson's special representative is almost, ipso facto, unacceptable simply because he is American. To make matters worse, the Acheson plan was evolved in Switzerland (at the Geneva talks), and in itself evokes memories of Zurich.

It is hard for people outside the island to appreciate how traumatic an experience the Zurich agreement was to Greek Cypriots. Fear of their fate being again "fixed" behind their backs has become almost an obsession.

Salt Spring Phone History

The article appearing in your paper of Aug. 8, "Age of Automation Arrives at Salt Spring Island," was forwarded to me by an old friend in Victoria. It is most interesting but for the sake of historical accuracy, I must point out that some of the information in paragraphs 2 and 3 is not quite correct.

Arriving on the Island in the spring of 1903 I lived there until 1908. The government line was in existence when I got there and I was responsible for its maintenance for nearly two years whilst I worked with Malcolm & Purvis at their Ganges store. Many strenuous days I spent in the "bush" repairing that line during the winter gales. There was a telephone at Fulford and one at Ganges only. As a check, I recall speaking from Ganges to a lady doctor in Victoria when the Fred Croftons' first born was a week or two old and not expected to live. He, Dermott, is, I believe, still on the Island and can, possibly, verify the date!

The private system was also in operation at that time. It linked the store at Ganges, Frank Scott, Rev. Wilson's house (surely "Barnesley," from where he came in Yorkshire, not "Barnbury"), Vesuvius wharf, Geoff Scott and Will Scott. There was no exchange, it was a party line.

Actually this incident and many others of the Scotts, Wilsons, Croftons and Moutts of this period are dealt with fully in my book, A Late Summer, which was published only last month.

Work for Work

The subject of the address by Mr. E. E. Pearlman, as reported in the Times of August 14, under the heading "Let Judges Settle Strikes," might be safely acceptable if judges were free from bias and had a standard measure for justice to help them—like a yardstick. Such a measure is needed because judges are only human; and it is also needed for general exchange purposes.

The cause of many of our troubles is not only in human nature; but in a variable money system which has no relation to things being exchanged and cannot represent their true values, so much so, that it is keeping our civilization in a state of continual bankruptcy. People prefer profits instead of justice because profits are values they get without working for them. Profits inflate our money system but do not add anything to the work values of a nation's wealth.

Humanity as a whole might greatly benefit if it changed its entire money system by making one hour of adult human work the sole unit of value for exchange purposes.

When human work has been equitably exchanged nothing else remains that can rightly have a price. The work-hour unit of exchange is therefore the true measure for justice, and general exchange purposes.

Re-Writing the Bible

Have the United and Baptist Churches found themselves a new God, that they dare to re-write the Bible for the edification (not to say "benefit") of their Sunday school children?

The Bible says, through St. John, "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of this Book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this Book; and if any man shall take away from the words of the Book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the Book of Life, and out of the Holy City, and from the things that are written in this Book" (Rev. 22.18/19).

In Proverbs, too, we find it said that "Every word of God is pure: He is a shield unto them that put their trust in Him. Add thou not unto His words, lest He reprove thee, and thou be found a liar." (Prov. 30.5/6).

Is it any business of yours? you may ask, seeing that I do not belong to either of the denominations mentioned.

It is the business of any and every Christian to protest any and every attempt to belittle or destroy the Bible—God's Word—hence this protest and warning.

E. W. ABRAHAM.

'I Feel Ashamed . . .

I, as a halfway decent person and as a citizen of Canada, feel ashamed that the prime minister and foreign affairs minister condone what the U.S. has done in North Viet Nam, yet applaud the happenings in South Viet Nam. Our "foreign" minister repeats the lies of Adlai Stevenson, finding this preferable to being honest.

The facts are indisputable. One can but think it "pays" to ignore them. Official Ottawa calls the 49th line that divides Canada from the U.S. an imaginary line. Let us make it real.

A Little Charity

Strange how our provincial government caters to the motorist in finding unlimited funds to build highways and toll-free bridges, yet for those in need of such, senior citizens and many on limited incomes having no car, bus transportation cannot be provided at payable rates to such.

Why? Perhaps our government could find it possible to use a little Christian charity towards bus patrons.

Airport Mural

There is little point in arguing on matters of taste; a critic is required to express his aesthetic judgments without fear or favor, and differences of opinion are bound to occur. Facts, however, should be sacred, and I was grievously in error when I supposed Mr. Richel's tile to be ceramic in fact as well as appearance, and did not perceive them to be enamelled copper.

Deprived, as I was, of the aids of chemical analysis, and having only the look of Mr. Richel's screen to guide me, I clearly made a mistake of considerable importance. Vindictive, snobbish, ill-educated and arrogant I may be, but isn't it rather endearing of me not to be infallible as well?

Politics Blamed For Bad Roads Over 12 Years

DUNCAN (CP) — Cowichan Chamber of Commerce was told Wednesday nothing has been done to improve Cowichan Lake Road in the 12 years Cowichan-Newcastle riding has been represented in the legislature by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Chamber director Will Dobson was commenting on a suggestion that Highways Minister Philip Gagliardi be invited to take a ride on the twisting highway.

The chamber finally decided to invite the minister to address a public meeting in October.

The meeting was told highway department surveys are under way to determine the cost of rebuilding the highway near its terminus with the Trans-Canada Highway.

$1.5 MILLION CLAIMS PAID

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 700 claims totalling about $1,500,000 arose from Alaska tidal wave damage at Port Alberni, it was disclosed Wednesday by the Canadian Independent Adjusters Conference which was retained by the provincial government to assess uninsured flood damage.

E. S. Earle, chairman of the adjustment committee, said when about 12 remaining claims have been settled, the total outlay will be about $1,450,000.

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Sunday Sports Ban Sidetracked

NANAIMO — Arena commissioners hope to meet the United Church Women of Nanaimo to discuss a request for a Sunday morning sports ban.

This problem was passed over to them by city council which first received the request from the church women.

The women feel sports are responsible for a drop in Sunday school attendance.

Commissioners said they felt the matter was outside their jurisdiction and suggested the women approach the sports group directly involved.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — A Cobble Hill man is in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital today following a two-car collision Wednesday.

Joseph Teasdale suffered knee lacerations after his car hit another car being driven by Laura R. Rogers, of New Jersey. The accident took place at the junction of the old Island Highway and Shepherd Road, near Mill Bay.

NANAIMO — The civic arena here will not get a new floor until spring.

Work cannot be done at present because of time involved—about 15 weeks in all.

Civic properties and recreation commissioners feel spring is the best time as work will cause least disruption to local sports, although it could delay start of next year's lacrosse season.

However, if work had been started this fall, it would have interrupted ice skating and hockey programs.

NANAIMO — Central Vancouver Island union board of health will hold its quarterly meeting

Red Knight mounts his charger.

Red Knight Swooping Through Comox Skies

COMOX — The RCAF's Red Knight will joust with death in a 15-minute thrill show at Comox Day Celebrations, Saturday.

The RCAF's solo jet aerobatic display, the Red Knight was training command's contribution to the 50th anniversary of powered flight in Canada in 1959.

Since then, he has thrilled millions of spectators across Canada and the United States.

The Red Knight was named after Germany's famous First World War ace, Baron Von Richtofen, who earned the title "The Red Knight of Germany" for his daring exploits in a little red biplane.

Eight Red Knights to Date

There have been eight Red Knights to date, new officers being appointed from time to time.

Flying the scarlet T33 this year will be Flying Officer Bill Slaughter from Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Bill joined the RCAF in 1957 and was trained at Centralia, Ontario; Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, and Gimli, Manitoba.

He received his wings in 1958 and then flew Sabres over France with 421 Squadron as part of the NATO forces.

Bill wears the coveted Gold Caterpillar Pin, proof that he has had to abandon his aircraft and owes his life to his parachute.

One of the outstanding aspects of the demonstration is the ability of the Red Knight to confine his routine to the display area in spite of the relatively high speed.

He will be seen throughout the year at major air shows across Canada.

Prison Site Pinpointed Near Saltair

NORTH COWICHAN (CP) — Reeve Donald Morton said Wednesday a new provincial jail for Vancouver Island will be built at the northern border of North Cowichan municipality.

Reeve Morton told council the site has been picked by the attorney-general's department and that a formal announcement will be made shortly by the department.

He said the site is exactly at the boundary with Ladysmith municipality, south of Saltair. A few details had yet to be worked out, among them water supply to the prison.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said last month the jail would probably be located near Saltair on a 1,000-acre site.

Mr. Bonner said the jail will house about 200 prisoners. Construction is to start in March.

Yellow Point Actors To Tour Charlottes

NANAIMO (CP) — Yellow Point Drama Group has decided to tour the Queen Charlotte Islands. The decision came, said chairman Hector Richmond, after several months studying the high costs involved.

Girl Gored to Death by Goat in Zoo

PENTICTON (CP)—A lingering look at a corralled mountain goat in a privately-owned museum and zoo has cost a little girl her life.

Police said Wednesday they believe Susan Dawn McMann, 7, leaned her head against three-inch fencing surrounding the corral as she dallied behind her parents and was gored by the animal's nine-inch horns.

"The family just heard a scream and saw the child lying on the ground outside the fence," said a police spokesman.

"It all happened in seconds. The family had only just turned their backs on the corral."

Victor McMann, the girl's father, drove the injured child in his own car to hospital here.

Hospital authorities said the child died in the operating room Tuesday night about five hours after she was injured.

BRAIN DAMAGE

An autopsy revealed the girl suffered brain damage and that she had suffered a puncture wound in her forehead. Police said an inquest would be held but no date was immediately set.

The McManns, with their four other children, had been on holiday in the area for two weeks from their home at Ladner.

STOPPED AT ZOO

They had stopped at the zoo near Okanagan Falls, about 20 miles south of here.

"We were just going towards the car to leave," Mr. McMann said in a telephone interview.

"Susan was behind us still at the corral and no one saw what happened."

Holidayers Return, Fail to Tell Police

If you asked city police to look after your house while you were on holidays, don't forget to let them know you're back in town.

Police officers telephoned 30 homeowners Tuesday and discovered they are all returned from holidays. But none had bothered to remove their address from the list of homes that police check.

TWO BURSTS MISSED U.S. CAR

BERLIN (AP)—A Soviet army sentry fired two bursts from a sub-machine-gun "in the direction" of a U.S. army car in East Berlin last Sunday but no one was injured, a U.S. spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the bullets did not strike the car.

The shooting took place in an unrestricted area near a Soviet military installation in the Soviet sector district of Bisdorff.

Airman Falls 1,000 Feet

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—A young airman fell 1,000 feet after his parachutes failed and his only injury was a scratch on his knee.

The air force said Michael D. Leonard of Lawler, Iowa, was falling at a rate of about 40 miles an hour when he hit the ground Tuesday.

He was able to stand and walk but the flight doctor made him lie on a stretcher. Hospital examination showed no broken bones or contusions. The scratch on his knee was about the size of a five-cent piece.

Lieut. Hardy Lebel, head of the 48th Pararescue Squadron, said: "I strongly believe that he owes his life to his intensive training, his excellent physical condition and his cool head."

Lebel said the main chute became tangled in its own lines and the reserve chute tangled in the main chute. He estimated the two chutes broke Leonard's fall by about 35 per cent.

Watch the Birdie, He May be on a Spy Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army is wondering whether the job of scouting out a hidden enemy may be for the birds. And it is paying something more than chicken feed to find out.

The results of an initial study on birds' reconnaissance potential so encouraged army scientists at the Aberdeen, Md., proving ground that a $174,472 contract has been signed with General Atronics Corp.

When the army awarded the contract it would say only that it was a "research program of training birds for field surveillance" and "the project is classified."

Today a spokesman did go a bit further: "The initial program was a study of the learning ability of birds. In this case, the study was to determine whether a bird can be taught to recognize the presence of a person and, if so, would the bird perform characteristic action indicating such recognition."

"The feasibility study indicated positively that a bird can be taught and that a bird will perform a characteristic response indicating recognition of the presence of a person."

"On the basis of this, a further study is being initiated." This is as far as the spokesman was willing to go. Hunters have long believed that crows, and perhaps some game birds, have a system of surveillance and "communicate" warnings of perils to the flock.

FEDERAL PAY HIKE FOR OFFICE WORKERS

OTTAWA (UPI) — Privy council president George McElraith today announced salary increases for 65,000 federal civil servants totalling $10,150,000.

The boost means that office workers of the giant federal service—from typists and clerks to stenographers and low-ranking administrators—will receive annual hikes of from $90 to $700.

Investments In Foreign Firms Soars

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian direct investment in industries abroad reached an estimated $2,619,000,000 at the end of 1961. However, close to 40 per cent of this foreign investment was made by Canadian corporations under the effective control of Americans and other non-residents.

The figures are included in the latest review of the Canadian international investment position, made by the bureau of statistics.

Not included in the tally of foreign investment abroad are two large blocks of Canadian money:

1. Nearly $6,000,000,000 that Canadian banks and insurance companies must hold in other countries to cover their liabilities there.
2. Another $3,000,000,000 excluded because it has no real significance in the Canadian balance of payments. This money includes, for example, the foreign holdings of some Canadian corporations which are owned abroad and do all their business abroad.

INVESTMENT JUMPED

Between 1954 and 1961, the foreign direct investment rose by $1,000,000,000 to $2,619,000,000.

Of this total, about 67 per cent of the investment was in the United States, or approximately $1,747,000,000. This is an increase since 1954 of $316,000,000.

Investment in Britain rose in the same period from $119,000,000 to $288,000,000, while direct Canadian outlays in industries in the rest of the Americas—excluding the U.S.—rose from $132,000,000 to $329,000,000.

Canadian direct investment in the six-nation European Common Market at the end of 1961 totalled $60,000,000. This included about $28,000,000 in France, $16,000,000 in West Germany, $12,000,000 in Italy, $2,000,000 in Belgium and Luxembourg and about $2,000,000 in The Netherlands.

This investment increased during 1961 by about $15,000,000. Investment in West Germany rose by some $6,000,000 while that in France and Italy up about $4,000,000 each.

Of the $1,000,000,000 increase in foreign investments since the end of 1954, Canadian-controlled companies and Canadian individuals have put up about $400,000,000 and the rest has come largely from American-controlled corporations in Canada.

Foreign control of Canadian direct investment abroad rose from 27 per cent at the end of 1954 to 40 per cent in 1961.

Supplies Of Wheat Take Drop

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian wheat supplies in storage and transit in North American positions Aug. 12 were 440,200,000 bushels, down 4,200,000 during the week and 10,900,000 below the same time last year.

The board of grain commissioners also reported Tuesday western farm deliveries for the week ended Aug. 12 declined sharply with wheat deliveries of 400,000 bushels, compared with 32,900,000 the week before.

Other country elevator receipts for the week with preceding week's figure in brackets were: Oats 200,000 (4,800,000), barley 100,000 (5,400,000), rye 20,000 (900,000) and flaxseed 20,000 (700,000).

Canadian overseas clearances for the week were wheat 17,100,000 bushels; oats 100,000; barley 900,000; rye 1,000, and flaxseed 600,000.

Country elevator shipments with previous week's figure in brackets were: Wheat 8,800,000 (24,800,000), oats 1,400,000 (2,400,000), barley 1,300,000 (2,400,000), rye 100,000 (300,000) and flaxseed 200,000 (600,000).

The total Lakehead grain position was 66,800,000 bushels down 6,100,000 during the week.

Vancouver Council Hikes Pay

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council members Tuesday voted themselves a 33 per cent salary increase.

The mayor's annual remuneration will be increased from $12,000 to $16,000 and the aldermen's from $3,600 to $4,800.

Mayor Bill Rathie, who voted for the aldermanic increase but against his own increase, said he would not take the extra $4,000, but will put it into a special civic fund set up this year to promote new development.

One-third of the indemnities are considered expenses and are tax-free.

Last week council was deadlocked 4-4 on the pay issue, but on Tuesday the vote was 5-3.

The increase will cost the city $16,000 a year.

'Everything Offered For Sale'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Everything Webb and Knapp Canada Ltd. owns is up for sale as the company fights to retain a cash position and preserve its corporate operations, President James A. Soden of Montreal, said Wednesday.

He told interviewers this is the result of financial difficulties experienced by its U.S. parent company, Webb and Knapp Inc. of New York which owns 53 per cent of the Canadian operation.

The financial difficulties, he said, have put a for-sale sign on $15,000,000 worth of holdings in B.C., including land for a proposed $55,000,000 Coal Harbor apartment development in Vancouver.

He said Webb and Knapp is negotiating with six firms, including two from Vancouver, for take-over of the Coal Harbor projects which would provide some 28 acres of waterfront property near the entrance to Vancouver's Stanley Park, considered one of the finest high-rise apartment locations on the continent.

Webb and Knapp "cannot undertake Coal Harbor and is seeking someone who can," Mr. Soden said. "We are absolutely confident Coal Harbor will be developed in accordance with the basic concept drawn up by our company."

Also up for sale are about $40,000,000 worth of holdings in Quebec plus the company's share of the Trizec Corp. which owns Place Ville Marie in Montreal and three large shopping centres.

ANOTHER UNIVERSITY FUND DRIVE IN B.C.

Notre Dame Will Seek $15 Million

NELSON (CP) — Notre Dame University will seek support from business, industry and citizens to raise a capital fund of $15,000,000 to develop the university.

Rev. Aquinas Thomas, president of the only private degree granting university in the province, said Wednesday it appears necessary for Notre Dame to launch a financial campaign for capital development on its own.

The university will be competing for funds with the three universities capital fund, which is seeking $28,000,000 for development at the Universities of B.C. and Victoria, and Simon Fraser University. A $2,000,000 gift from MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited to this fund was announced Wednesday.

The board of governors of Notre Dame said they had asked the three government-supported universities to include them in their fund drive, but that the others had decided against it.

Father Thomas said the university's board of advisors said Notre Dame should do as well or better in the fund drive than if it was included in the joint appeal of the other universities.

"The university is not only carrying the burden of higher education in southeastern B.C., but it is doing this without any provincial government aid despite the fact that the same educational service is provided for all students," said Father Thomas.

"The same level of salaries must be paid to the predominantly non-church staff, and the same enrollment pressure must be faced."

The university expects a total of 600 students when classes open in September.

The university was founded in a vacant store in 1950, and facilities valued at $3,500,000 have been developed since 1954.

In June of this year the first graduates were granted degrees in arts and science.

Included in the appeal will be funds for a library, a science building, a fine arts building, eight classroom buildings, a gymnasium, administration block and 10 student residences.

Drawing plans for the library, laboratories and additional students dormitories are now being drawn up.

The Day Cronkite's Crew Covered the Yankees

By ROBERT M. GOLDBERG
The Washington Post

What follows is a transcript of a dream we had during a dogfood commercial—we dozed off immediately after recalling that the Columbia Broadcasting System had bought the New York Yankees.

Scene: A big broadcasting booth above home plate in Yankee Stadium. Walter Cronkite is anchorman.

Cronkite: Good day ladies and gentlemen. This is Walter Cronkite and this is the New York Yankees, and you are there as history is being made in this great ball park. The last game in the Yankee-Senator series is about to begin, but before the play starts let's check with Roger Mudd at the stadium entrance—after this message.

COMMERCIAL

Mudd: Hello, Walter. I have some inside predictions from the chief hotdog vendor in the bleachers about how the game will come out today. This is Charlie Smith, who has a special system—how does it work, Mr. Smith?

Smith: Well, Roger, I take the pitcher's earned-run-average, multiply by the number of RBIs for the home team and—

Mudd: Excuse me, Mr. Smith, there seems to be some activity on the field. Back to the anchor booth and Walter Cronkite.

WALTER CRONKITE
... "you are there"

Cronkite: While you were talking, Roger, Elston Howard seems to have hit a home run. The crowd is going wild. Charles Collingwood, in the left-field bleachers, take it away—after this brief message.

COMMERCIAL

Collingwood: Well, Walter, what our viewers just missed was quite a sight. We've covered the blitz, the Berlin airlift and the death of Stalin—but this matches them all. Elston Howard's homer lofted into the air like a Jupiter missile and made a lazy arc into the upper stands. Let's see if we can talk to the kid who caught the ball. Hey, fellow! Is this the ball? Walter, this is the ball that...

Cronkite: Sorry to cut in, Charles, but Harry Reasoner has some background data on that home run. We'll switch to Harry in the Yankee dugout after this message.

COMMERCIAL

Reasoner: Walter, I've been doing some research on home runs, and that was the fourth longest ever hit into the stands since Babe Ruth in 1926. The Babe, you know, still holds the record for the most homers hit during a regular season and for the most four-baggers in a career. But young Elston Howard—Walter? Is something going on in the field?

Cronkite: Sorry to cut in, Harry, but it seems that Mickey Mantle has hit a triple with the bases loaded. But Bob Trout is down on the field. Take it away, Bob.

ROGER MUDD
... entrance expert

Trout: What our viewers may have missed, Walter, was a powerful triple hit by Mickey Mantle, but I have one of the umpires here, who can tell us something about it. Al Barlick, how does that triple compare with others that you have seen during your long career in the majors?

Barlick: My feeling, Bob, is that—

Cronkite: Excuse me, Bob but we've got Eric Sevareid in broadcast central with some philosophic reflections on the game that we are all seeing on this warm August day. Come in, Eric, after this message.

COMMERCIAL

Sevareid: Baseball, Walter, is like Newtonian physics. It runs order through nine innings of chaos and teaches us to savor the unexpected while glimpsing the harmony of the spheres. That home run and triple had a certain tragic inevitability for the Senators—they were bolts thrown by an angry Zeus, and the crowd, like a Greek chorus, told the Senators the bad news. Yet the Yankees risk succumbing to the sin of Hubris, even though they are ahead in this game by 16 to 1.

Cronkite: Sorry, Eric, but the score is now 18 to 1, and the game is now over. So the Yankees win again—that's the way it was today. We'll have an interpretive wrap-up on the entire game for those of you who missed the drama on the field—that is, after this brief message.

One Spellbinding Minute Wrote Decision for Lions

VANCOUVER (CP)—Saskatchewan Roughriders dished up another football spectacle Wednesday night. But British Columbia Lions refused to watch.

Lions won 27-16 after a spellbinding minute of fourth-quarter play that wrote the decision for one of the most exciting Western Football Conference games here in years.

It left Lions still undefeated after four games, with a first-place lead of three points over Saskatchewan and Calgary.

A crowd of 35,618, second largest in the 10-year history of regular season play at Empire Stadium, cheered both teams for their razzle-dazzle.

Riders took the stage first with a drive from their own 38 line as they trailed 14-9 with less than 10 minutes left.

Four running plays and a 15-yard pass from quarterback Ron Lancaster to flanker Hugh Campbell took the ball to the B.C. 29. But on a wide sweep by fullback George Reed, Rider halfback Ed Buchanan was ejected from the game for fighting and Saskatchewan drew another flag for holding. It meant penalties of 25 and 10 yards, taking the ball back to the Rider 41—and second down with 43 long yards to go.

Lancaster, evading linemen in a crazy backfield scamper, fired passes to halfback Bob Good for gains of 33 and 24 yards. That made it first down on the B.C. seven. Reed took the fall four yards, Lancaster missed Jack Gotta in the end zone, then hit Good again from the three for the go-ahead touchdown. Gerry James' convert made it 16-14 and there were six minutes left.

It was Lions' turn. On the second scrimmage play after kick-off, quarterback Joe Kapp threw 42 yards into the hands of halfback Willie Fleming. Fleming left defender Bob Ptacek in a 33-yard streak to complete a 75-yard touchdown play.

It put B.C. into a 20-16 lead and broke the back of the Saskatchewan rally. Another B.C. touchdown in the final minute came almost incidentally.

Game of Glaring Offensive Errors

Lions' offensive stars were Fleming, with his one big touchdown, and Bob Swift, rookie Canadian fullback who pounded through the line for Lions' other three. Peter Kempf converted on three of four tries.

Rider touchdowns were by Buchanan and Good, with James converting one of them and kicking a first-quarter field goal.

It was a game of glaring offensive errors by both clubs. Lancaster was intercepted three times, Kapp twice and Lions fumbled the ball away twice.

Before Riders retrieved the lead briefly in the fourth quarter they threw away two good chances. Lancaster fumbled a third-down snap at the B.C. eight and Riders lost eight yards in three plays from the B.C. 12.

Riders came out of the first quarter with a 3-0 lead on James' field goal, kicked from the 23-yard line after Gene Wlasiuk had picked off a Kapp pass.

Lions made it 14-3 by half-time on a 75-yard touchdown march in 14 plays—ending with a three-yard plunge by Swift—and a 48-yard TD drive finished off by Swift from the seven.

Riders got back one unconverted touchdown in the third quarter when Kapp fumbled on his own 35. They moved in quickly, striking on a 14-yard pounce to Buchanan.

LONG LOSSES

The back-to-back touchdowns midway in the fourth quarter made it 20-16 and Lions applied the last touch when they dropped Lancaster for two long losses, took possession on the Rider two and sent Swift over from there.

Saskatchewan gained 22 first downs on 213 yards rushing and 122 passing. B.C. was 136 yards on the ground, 141 in the air for 18 first downs. Kapp completed six of 11 passes and Lancaster nine of 19.

BANTAM GRID PRACTICE

The St. Louis College bantam Canadian football club will hold its first practice Friday at 1 on the school grounds.

South Africa was barred because it refused to dissociate itself from racial segregation in sports. South Africa said it could not comply with the IOC conditions.

Elsewhere and otherwise... Takashi Hasegawa, a 22-year-old Japanese professional boxer, died today after being in a coma for 82 hours following a six-round bout Sunday... Although he wasn't felled, he took a bad beating and lost consciousness after the decision... In London, light-heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano agreed to defend his title against Terry Downes, the ex-middleweight champ, on Sept. 28... Gary Bauman of Calgary, a goalie who played four years with Michigan Tech, has been signed by Montreal Canadiens hockey club.

Los Angeles Dodger southpaw Sandy Koufax has come up with a sore arm, but the baseball team's doctor says "it's nothing serious"... Koufax, who has lost only five of his 24 decisions, will be out until Monday... At Newport, R.I., Constellation scored her third straight victory in the final trials for America's Cup candidates... She beat Neferitti by two minutes, 18 seconds over a 15.3-mile course... American Eagle, beaten Tuesday by Constellation, took her second victory by four minutes, 58 seconds over Columbia.

The best-of-five series to decide the B.C. junior-lacrosse championship opens Sunday when Victoria Junior Shamrocks take on New Westminster in the Royal City.

Winner of the series will be western representative in the Canadian Minto Cup final.

Dates have yet to be set for the other games.

Olympic Entries Hit Record 94

(Times News Services)

Despite the International Olympic Committee's refusal to accept South Africa, a record 94 countries will compete in the world's greatest athletic meet in October.

Greece, the "mother" of the Olympic Games, beat the registration deadline by minutes to become the 93rd nation. Costa Rica's bid came in after the deadline, but it is expected to be approved.

The total is 10 more than competed in the 1960 games in Rome.

JUNIOR ROCKS START SUNDAY

The best-of-five series to decide the B.C. junior-lacrosse championship opens Sunday when Victoria Junior Shamrocks take on New Westminster in the Royal City.

Winner of the series will be western representative in the Canadian Minto Cup final.

Dates have yet to be set for the other games.

ELUSIVE TARGET

Halfback Larry Dumelle of Saskatchewan finds Willie Fleming elusive target as he misses attempt to tackle fleet star of B.C. Lions during Western Football Conference game Wednesday night in Vancouver. Willie the Wisp was stopped a few yards further upfield on this play but he ran away from all Roughriders with Joe Kapp pass in fourth quarter to bring Lions from behind in big play of 27-16 B.C. victory. Unbeaten Lions now lead Western Conference by three points. (CP Wirephoto.)

First Day Minus Upset But Islanders Bow Out

SASKATOON — The attrition rate on big-name competitors in the Canadian Amateur golf championship was expected to soar today as a field of 32, including five British Columbians, stepped off for today's second and third rounds.

Two more rounds will be played Friday with the 36-hole final set for Saturday.

Wednesday's first-round activity was without a major upset, possibly as a result of an experiment by the governing Royal Canadian Golf Association.

The RCGA seeded members of all provincial Willingdon Cup teams, in order of scores, to avoid having them play each other in the first round.

Closest thing to an upset was Ernie Greeley's 3 and 2 loss to Saskatchewan's Jack Taft. Greeley, a Regina member of Saskatchewan's Willingdon Cup team, had been highly regarded.

DUE BACK today after six-week European tour, defence man Ed Kowalyk is expected to rejoin Victoria Shamrocks lacrosse club in time for Friday's Inter-City League play-off game at Memorial Arena. He won't make it for tonight's game in New Westminster, however. Westminster leads best-of-five series 1-0.

Wins Two Matches in Canadian Meet

OTTAWA—Roger Skillings of Victoria continued on the trail of the under-14 singles crown here Wednesday as he chalked up a pair of victories in the Canadian open junior tennis championships.

Skillings, who last week won the under-14 Canadian closed title, dropped his first set in his age division in his second-round match against Harold Solomon, but he turned back his rival from Silver Springs, Md., 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

Skillings moved easily through the third round, disposing of Mark Landman of Hamtramck, Mich., 6-3, 6-0.

Bob Puddicombe of Vancouver and Montreal's Pierre Lamarche kept Canada's hopes alive in the under-18 singles competition as they survived the fifth round of the tourney.

Puddicombe defeated eighth-seeded foreign star Neil McAllister from New Zealand 6-1, 6-2. Lamarche got by one of Canada's better juniors, Dave Brown of Toronto, 6-2, 6-3.

Dancer Verdict In Three Weeks

TORONTO (CP)—Although a verdict is not expected for about three weeks, the brilliant racing career of Northern Dancer is believed over. The great Canadian thoroughbred has a bowed tendon.

The Dancer, who won $580,647 for Windfields Farm of Toronto in his two years of racing on Canadian and United States tracks, kicked himself on the left foreleg while training at Belmont Park July 30.

A leg cast was put on to reduce swelling and inflammation. Results of treatment will not be known until it comes off.

Owner E. P. Taylor said in an interview the injury was "my greatest disappointment."

"There is some chance the Dancer will come back, but I've been in the business long enough to know it's very slim." Other horsemen were pessimistic.

"Several horses who have bowed tendons have returned to the races over the years, but they've dropped down in company, even down to allowance races," one said.

Taylor described the Dancer's

Do You Read Foreign News?

By JACK HUTTON

A question is bothering a great many people across Canada during these days of international crises: how many people read international news?

Particularly the younger generation which will inherit the problems adults don't seem capable of solving. Are they interested in Viet Nam? Cyprus?

Is the fact that Ringo has a cold more important than the fact that United Nations Secretary-General U Thant can't find enough money to run his organization?

If you want to test your own basic knowledge of world affairs, try the following questions. (Why limit them to yourself, in fact? Try them on a kitchen table conference.) Answer half of them correctly and you're better than average.

Answer all of them correctly and you obviously belong somewhere editing foreign news. See how you do.

1. The island of Cyprus, very much in the news, is split into two bitterly opposed factions. Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Can you name the leaders of both sections?

2. Which country do the following persons represent? (a) Gen. Charles de Gaulle, (b) U Thant, (c) Nguyen Khanh (you should know him by now), (d) Moise Tshombe, (e) Sen. Barry Goldwater?

3. Italian President Antonio Segni was in the news recently. Why? While you're at it, name the premier of his country. (Answer both of these correctly, and you're an international whiz.)

4. Who opposed Sen. Barry Goldwater for the presidential nomination at the recent Republican Party convention? And just which U.S. state does Sen. Goldwater represent?

5. Can you name the children of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip in order of age? (Come to think of it can you even name them all? Half the people I've asked can't.)

6. People are talking a great deal these days about the Geneva Conference of 1954. What did it do?

7. What happened 19 years ago this month to completely change the history of the world ending one era and launching another? What was the most important thing to happen 50 years ago this month?

How did you fare? The answers are below.

1. Archbishop Makarios, a Greek Cypriot, is president of Cyprus; Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, a Turkish Cypriot, is vice-president, devoted to ensuring that his minority gets the rights he feels it should have.

2. (A) France (b) Burma (c) South Viet Nam (d) Congo (e) the United States.

3. President Segni, 72, suffered a cerebral thrombosis. His premier, who had just gone through rocky political waters, is Premier Aldo Moro.

4. Gov. William Scranton was the unlucky gentleman from Pennsylvania who was steamrolled by Sen. Goldwater's forces. And you undoubtedly knew that Sen. Goldwater represents Arizona.

5. Hah, did this one stump you? Charles, 15, Ann, 13, Andrew, 4 and Edward, less than one-year-old.

6. The Geneva Conference split Indochina into Viet Nam and Laos, hoping to neutralize Southeast Asia and end continual warfare. Needless to say, things didn't work out.

7. Nineteen years ago this month the first atom bomb exploded at Hiroshima, making all earlier weapons obsolete and presenting us with problems we still haven't solved. Fifty years ago this month World War I was launched—the war to end all wars.

Don't feel badly if you missed many of the foreign names or couldn't spell most of them. But they may just stick with you next time!

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Joey Heather-ton, the cute, pert, flip, all-girl Beetle-banged blonde movie discovery who's only 19, introduced me to a new language . . . you may want to pick up a few expressions in case you have to indulge in teen-talk.

"How are you, Joey?" I asked, sitting across from her at Gallagher's.

"Bovy groovy. I think our picture's going to be a biggie." She was sitting under a huge red cap and was encased in a white dress with big black dots.

Q: You mean, I gather, that you like it?

A: Brumppum rimsot bing-bang-bang!

Q: Er. . . I see. As I recall it, you play the daughter of a beautiful sculptress who stabs her mother's lover?

A: Just a nice All-American red-blooded teen-ager! I'm going to be 20 on Sept. 14. Twenty. Den-mother time. Gonna hit that big plateau in the sky. I have a girl friend, who's 18, and when she heard I was going to be 20, she screamed, "Twenty! Girl, you're over the hill!"

Q: When you were making the picture ("Where Love Has Gone"), who did you date?

A: Vince Edwards once. I thought he was going to be snarly-time but he was real charming.

Q: Are there still wolves in Hollywood?

A: Set-hoppers. With the tan and the sweater. They follow you from set to set. They never quit. They're zunky. Zunky means it's a bad scene. You maintain your cool at all times.

Q: What's the opposite of zunky?

A: Coooco or coocoooro. Ecstatic, crazy, zing bang.

Q: How are the Hollywood parties nowadays?

A: I haven't been shocked. I haven't been to any ringydingy orgies, they never turned out to be gassers. Just the usual abnormal.

Q: I saw you dancing the frug on the Johnny Carson show. You were really coocoooro, ecstatic, zingy and bingbang.

Joey, the daughter of Ray Heather-ton replied:

"That isn't what my father called it. He said it was grotesque."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: After getting the hospital bill, the patient said, "No wonder the doctors wore masks!"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Rosalind Russell, at a party, heard an actress say, "I dread to think of my 45th birthday"—and asked, "Why? What happened after that?"

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The car approached the corner at 70 miles an hour."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mary Louise Riale, age 11, of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., for her question:

What are ultraviolet rays?

In ordinary light you may see a sample of calcite as a bumpy lump of dirty white rock. The ultraviolet rays from a quartz lamp can transform this drab mineral with glowing jewel tones of pinks and purples, blues and greens. However, the ultraviolet rays themselves are invisible to human eyes.

Our starry sun is a powerhouse of electromagnetic energy. All forms of this radiant energy travel at the fantastic speed of about 186,000 miles a second. If a low-flying satellite could circle the earth at this speed, it could pass overhead 300 or 400 times in a single minute. Radio, infrared, ultraviolet and ordinary white light are different parts of this fabulous electromagnetic energy. They differ because they travel with different wave lengths.

Wave lengths are like pulses of energy with crests and dips somewhat like perfectly even waves of water. Each form of radiant energy pulses along on its own wave length, which is measured by the distance from crest to crest. Some wave lengths are yards and some even miles long. But the wave lengths of visible white light are measured in angstrom units—and there are 254 million angstrom units in an inch.

The wave lengths of the rainbow spectrum of light range from 3,800 to 7,800 angstroms. The wave lengths of ultraviolet rays are shorter than the shortest visible rays of visible light. They range from 3,800 to 100 angstroms and are invisible to the human eye. Ultraviolet is called black light or invisible light, and though we cannot see it directly we sometimes see and feel the results of this form of electromagnetic energy.

Ultraviolet Rays Destroy Germs

Ultraviolet radiation can be both good and bad for the human body. It can give us a gentle sun tan or a dangerous sun burn. It can destroy germ cells and may be used to purify food and water and to sterilize the air in an operating room.

But too much ultraviolet can damage skin and flesh, and it is a good thing that much of this radiation from the sun is filtered out by the atmosphere before it reaches the earth.

A glass prism absorbs most of the ultraviolet rays in white light, but a prism of glassy quartz lets many of them through. Though invisible, they can be detected on film and they leave their marks just beyond the shortest rays of the rainbow-colored spectrum.

Fluorescent lamps can change the invisible rays of ultraviolet into a variety of colored lights. The ultraviolet is created when an electric current passes through mercury vapor sealed inside the glass bulb. A chemical coating on the inside of the bulb changes this invisible energy into visible light. The wonderful array of colored fluorescent lights is created by different chemical mixtures on the inside of the bulbs.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Susan Lasher, age 13, of Albany, N.Y., for her question:

May we ask more than one question on a postcard to Andy?

Andy is happy, very happy to note that someone remembers to send questions on postcard rather than inside hard-to-open envelopes. There is no limit to how many questions each reader may ask. But there is a limit to the size of a postal card. It does not matter how many questions are on each card, but if the writing is too small and cramped they may be impossible to read.

The more questions you ask, the better. You can get two, three, four or even more on a card. But please make sure that the writing is large enough and clear enough for Andy to read. And, of course, check to see that you have included your name, age and home address.

'GOING TO SHOOT HIM'

Threat Diverts
Goldwater Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A telephone caller threatening to shoot Republican presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater Wednesday caused authorities to divert Goldwater's plane to an alternate airport as he returned to Washington from an Illinois campaign speech.

The Arizona senator's chartered four-engine Electra was scheduled to land at National Airport, across the Potomac from Washington, on the return trip from the Illinois State Fair at Springfield. But it was diverted to Dulles Airport about 30 miles from the capital.

A Federal Aviation Agency spokesman here said the threat

was telephoned to Chicago police. "We are going to shoot Barry Goldwater at 4 p.m.," the FAA spokesman quoted the caller.

The Chicago policeman who received the call asked who was going to do the shooting. "A Puerto Rican," was the reply, the spokesman said.

Goldwater's plane already was in the air on the trip back to Washington at the time of the call. A series of telephone calls from the Chicago police to the FBI here and from the FBI to FAA officials, who are in charge of Dulles and National airports, resulted in the change of airports, the spokesman said.

WOUNDED BOY
NEAR DEATH
AFTER FLIGHT

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 12-year-old Fort St. James youth is unconscious and in poor condition in hospital here with fragments of a .22-calibre bullet in his head.

Ronnie Prince was flown here Wednesday from Vanderhoof where he was first taken Tuesday after being shot accidentally while blueberry picking on the Necanic Indian Reserve.

RCMP said Ronnie's six-year-old brother was holding the rifle when it discharged, the bullet entering the youngster's head just above the left ear.

The boys had apparently taken the rifle with them following reports of a bear in the area.

NEW COINAGE

A new coinage system has been recommended for South Africa, including a nickel 50-cent piece, a bronze two-cent piece, and a nickel 2½-cent coin.

UPCOAST STORM

'Copter Plucks Fisherman From Tiny Rock

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fisherman Clifford Edwardson, 39, of Burnaby, saved his life early Wednesday with a desperate leap from his foundering gill-netter to a tiny rock in Laredo Sound off Bella Bella, 300 miles north of here.

He was rescued several hours later by helicopter and taken to Bella Bella hospital suffering minor exposure.

In a telephone interview from Bella Bella, he said he had no radio aboard the boat and could not summon help.

"The boat vanished after I leapt ashore," he said.

Mr. Edwardson said the wind rose as the tide began to flow in the morning, and by 11 a.m. breakers sweeping over the rock forced him to stand up to avoid drowning and in return face the possibility of being swept away.

Other fishboats noticed his plight. One boat crew tried three times to fight its way ashore in a dinghy, but was forced back by heavy breakers.

The Shell Oil Company exploration vessel, Joan Lindsay, dispatched her helicopter which plucked Edwardson off the rock.

North Ward Delay Stirs Anxiety

Greater Victoria School Board is getting anxious about the future of North Ward School, earmarked for demolition in the spring, but forced to continue classes indefinitely while awaiting urban renewal in the area.

Trustee Peter Bunn said Monday, "I don't want this matter to be left at the back of a filing cabinet."

A temporary annex was added to the 70-year-old school grounds about a month ago to cope with climbing enrolment. The result is more crowding outside as playing area is reduced.

City Hall is awaiting federal clearance for urban renewal financing in the Douglas-Quadra-Hillside district.

Vancouver Fair To Be Greeted By 2 Destroyers

Two Esquimalt-based destroyer-escorts will represent the navy's Pacific command at the Pacific National Exhibition which opens in Vancouver Saturday.

HMC ships Qu'Appelle and Saskatchewan will be detached from exercises with the Second Canadian Escort Squadron early Friday morning.

They will proceed from the west coast of Vancouver Island to Vancouver's Centennial Pier—a short distance from the PNE grounds.

The ships will leave Vancouver Monday with Qu'Appelle returning to Esquimalt and Saskatchewan continuing exercises in the Strait of Georgia before returning to Esquimalt Tuesday.

Construction Safety Clinic Here Sept. 3

Greater Victoria municipalities and the Workmen's Compensation Board will sponsor a safety clinic at the Victoria Public Library Sept. 3.

About 100 municipal, construction and public utility supervisors are expected to attend.

Topics to be covered include legal and practical controls, job fabricated shoring, shoring devices and methods of use and site management and job planning and direction.

Keynote speaker will be E. S. W. Belyea, associate professor of psychology at UBC.

City Hall Brains Under Inspection In Salary Survey

A top civic management consultant is looking over the brain power at City Hall to make an assessment of its worth.

Norman Hyser, an official of the non-profit Public Administration Service, of Chicago, is conducting a salary survey of all department heads for a report to city council.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said the survey was requested after it was learned that Mr. Hyser would be in the Greater-Victoria area on an assignment for another municipality. The Victoria survey will take about one week.

Five Day Clinic in Fourth Day Seventh-Day Adventists Report

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Health Minister Eric Martin commended the Seventh-day Adventist Church on its "very sincere effort" to help people to get rid of the smoking habit. "I gave up smoking four years ago and I feel a lot better for it," the minister said. "If I can do it, I'm sure most people can."

Arena Manager Sees Fat Hockey Revenues

Memorial Arena manager Jack Morgan today said he hopes that return of professional hockey next month will boost arena revenues by $50,000 a year. That amounts to a 25-per cent increase which will wipe out current operating deficits

Everyone Loves Lover Except Judge

A Campbell River man was fined $50 and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to careless driving.

Best Keller was charged after he drove through an intersection and almost hit a pedestrian. Police said Keller had one hand on the steering wheel and an arm around a passenger.

"There's a time for everything. There's no reason why you shouldn't use both hands," Magistrate William Ogilvie told him.

Shoot Laid On

Gun crews of HMCS Saskatchewan will get target practice Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. off Shearwater Point, 15 miles north of Sooke Harbor in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

2,500 SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE AWARDED SOON

A record number of provincial government scholarships to first-year university students is expected this year, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today. Announcement of more than 2,500 winners will be made very shortly, he said. The government this year budgeted $570,000 for scholarships, an increase of $50,000 over 1963.

Delegates Decide If Talks Public

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today warded off protests by saying that initial meetings on amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipal services can be held in public if the delegates wish.

Five of the representatives to the first meeting, at 2 p.m. today, Wednesday protested Mr. Campbell's announcement that it would be private. "I'll be happy to leave it up to the delegates, it's their meeting," replied Mr. Campbell.

START PRIVATE

The meeting will begin in private, but if the delegates vote to throw it open, Mr. Campbell said he will not object.

In favor of holding it open are Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay and four representatives of unorganized areas, William Reader of Colwood; R. H. Willing, Langford; K. W. Rainey, Metcheson, and A. E. Beasley, View Royal.

FIRM DETAILS

"I don't think anybody wants to hold the discussions in Beacon Hill Park," Mr. Campbell said.

MAKE KNOWN

"But I have already said there will be ample opportunity for the delegates to make the proceedings known to their own people. I would expect them to."

"In the unorganized areas, it is the responsibility of the elected representatives to make their people aware of these things."

However, Mr. Campbell warned that there will come a time when the meetings must be confidential.

This will be when firm details of provincial legislation are discussed.

"Legislation belongs to the legislature and we have no authority and could be severely criticized if the legislature hasn't had an opportunity to see the proposal," Mr. Campbell said.

The government traditionally maintains strict secrecy on its legislative program until it is presented in the House, which will meet again next January.

Contemptibles Church Parade To Cathedral

Victoria Branch, Old Contemptibles Association, will hold its annual church parade Sunday at Christ Church Cathedral.

Members have been requested to meet at 10:45 a.m. in the cathedral grounds at Quadra and Burdett.

The church parade will also mark the 50th anniversary of the forces of Britain and Germany at Mons, Belgium, 1914. Lieut.-Gov. G. R. Pearkes will be in attendance.

Vocational School Site Sought Outside Victoria

The education department is looking outside the city area for the site of its proposed $2 million Victoria vocational school.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today suitable property is being sought well away from the downtown area.

The site will probably be in Saanich, in an industrial zone. Mr. Peterson said the government found it can be dangerous to locate too near to a city when it planned a vocational school for Prince George.

By the time construction plans were completed the city had grown so much that the school would have been in the middle of a new residential area. A new site had to be selected.

Sick Cadet Landed For Operation

A cadet stationed aboard HMCS Ste. Therese today underwent surgery for acute appendicitis in Oakland Naval Hospital.

The ship put back to get him ashore. The incident will delay Ste. Therese's arrival home until 3 p.m. Saturday.

The ill seaman is K. A. Burrowsman of Point Claire, Que., a member of the regular officer training plan. No bulletins have been issued on his condition.

He was reported sick before the ocean escorts left San Francisco Tuesday after disembarking the 12 survivors of the tug Sea Wolf, which burned and sank Saturday in the mid-Pacific.

The ship planned to stop at Eureka, Calif.; Coos Bay or Astoria, Ore., if his condition became worse.

MET GALES

However, 40-knot gales made it impossible to enter these smaller ports and the Ste. Therese was forced to break off from the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron and return to San Francisco Bay.

St. Therese will arrive seven and one-half hours behind ocean escorts Beacon Hill, Antigonus, Sussexville, New Glasgow, Jonquiere and Stettler.

Dependents of men aboard Ste. Therese will not be permitted to enter HMC Dockyard until 4 p.m. to give the returning sailors time to clear customs.

Normally, customs officers board the ships while they are en route to port but they are unable to do so this time because of heavy tourist traffic.

Clyne Stalling Says Strachan

Opposition leader Robert Strachan today charged industrialist J. V. Clyne is withholding his report on B.C. expropriation laws at the suggestion of the provincial government.

He said Mr. Clyne is apparently waiting until after B.C. Hydro has taken all the land it needs for the Columbia River power project before submitting his recommendations for new laws.

Mr. Clyne was appointed royal commissioner into the subject in January, 1961.

IN 10 DAYS

Mr. Clyne said in Vancouver Wednesday his report will be submitted within a week or 10 days.

"He has said that before," commented Mr. Strachan. He recalled that Mr. Clyne said the report would be made this spring, and on July 17 said it would be in within a month.

"It is still my opinion that he has received the suggestion that it would not suit the purposes of either Hydro or the government until they have taken all the land they needed," Mr. Strachan said.

The opposition leader said the commission was set up because of widespread complaints about government land expropriation.

URGENT MATTER

"It was obviously a matter of urgency, not only because of road and pipeline construction programs, but also because of the Columbia River."

"To bring in the report after the pipelines are built and after the major highway program is pretty well completed and after the Columbia River is utterly ridiculous," Mr. Strachan said.

Hydro has already expropriated land in the Arrow Lakes region for the Columbia River project.

Oak Bay Declines To Rezone

City Hall learned today that Oak Bay council has refused a second request for rezoning of the city-owned Mountain View Home property so it could be sold.

Mayor Wilson indicated he was disappointed but would not protest.

The city originally asked for rezoning of the four-acre site on Cadboro Bay Road to high-rise apartment classification but this was turned down.

It subsequently asked for rezoning to apartment use with an eight-storey limit. This had now been refused by Oak Bay but with an indication that it may change its mind in a year or two.

"We certainly are anxious to sell the property and get our money out of it but I think we must be guided by the good judgment of Oak Bay Council," commented Mayor Wilson.

B.C. JUST A FAR OUT PRAIRIE PROVINCE?

B.C. will discuss an alliance with the prairie provinces for a combined exhibit at Montreal's 1967 world fair, Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark said today.

He said he will meet in about a month with the trade ministers from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

So far, Mr. Loffmark said, Ontario is the only province outside Quebec which has shown an interest in sending an exhibit to Expo '67.

B.C. rejected the idea of a show of its own because the fair is so far away and the returns are likely to be small. B.C. plans its own big trade fair in 1967 anyway.

Victorians Line Up For Free Car Medical

Victorians are so anxious to have their cars safety-checked they are lining up hours in advance to go through a provincial testing unit.

A failure rate of 40 per cent apparently does not deter motorists.

SEE TOTAL

A total of 382 vehicles went through the tests in three days.

There were 154 rejects. However, 60 motorists have returned with cars repaired to go through the tests a second time.

An official said some cars arrived at 9:30 this morning at the testing ground, the parking lot behind Memorial Arena.

However, they mistakenly believed testing would start at 10 a.m. instead of 1 p.m., he said.

But many motorists waited up to two hours Tuesday and Wednesday, the official said.

Wednesday 250 cars were tested. Of these 94 failed, but 40 returned after repairs.

RESPONSE EXCELLENT

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department said public response to the voluntary tests has so far been excellent.

"So long as the public responds to the voluntary nature of these tests and defective vehicles are repaired, there would not seem to be anything more needed," he said.

He said it has not been decided yet how closely to follow up enforcement of repairs.

At the moment the only follow up action planned is a letter warning the driver that his vehicle should be put in safe condition.

So far the most common defect uncovered by the tests is faulty headlamps, accounting for about one-quarter of the total failures.

Oak Bay is Test Case For Women Electors

The Association of Women Electors has launched a campaign to put 1,000 more names on the Oak Bay voters' list.

The drive to recruit delinquent voters in time for the next municipal election is headed by Mrs. S. W. Shackell, 1044 Oliver Street.

Mrs. Shackell believes that many residents miss the opportunity to vote in municipal affairs simply because they do not know they are eligible.

Oak Bay was chosen by the association as a testing ground, and if there is an appreciable difference in the number of voters turning out at the poll in December an effort will be made next year to recruit delinquent voters in other municipalities.

LETTERS SENT
Letters are being sent out with all water bills this month. Apartment dwellers will be reached as members of the association deliver the letters personally.

The association hopes to reach all renters, wives of property owners, sons and daughters age 21, and residents of boarding houses, whose names do not already appear on the List of Electors.

Mayor Ready To Mediate Meat Strike

Mayor R. B. Wilson today said he will consult with the provincial labor department to see if he should attempt to mediate the Alberta Meat Market strike. (See earlier story on Page 3).

"I'll ask if we can be of any assistance by offering our good offices," said the mayor after a union representative visited his office this morning.

The strike at the Quadra Street butcher shop is more than a year old. City council recently declared itself ready to help the two sides reach an agreement if its assistance was requested.

George Johnson, Vancouver agent for the amalgamated meatcutters' union, saw the mayor this morning following a previous contact by Norman Musgrave of the union.

TOPICS of the DAY

Victoria Labour Council voted Wednesday night to endorse the Victoria Citizens Committee stand against a proposed bus fare increase.

"B.C. Hydro wants to get rid of the transit system, and is applying the old squeeze play," said a delegate.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the annual rainfall in Central Saanich, Saanich, Victoria, or on the Saanich Peninsula? At what season of the year does most of it fall? K.K.

A. Average precipitation varies from place to place so here is a table of rainfall from spots throughout the area:

Victoria International Airport in North Saanich, 32.51 inches; federal government experimental station in Central Saanich, 32.86; Cordova Bay in Saanich and southern Saanich, 33.41 and 35.01, respectively, and Victoria, 27.35.

Eighty per cent of the precipitation falls in the six months from October to March.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions Club: Empress Hotel, 7:30 p.m. Victoria general manager Victoria Maple Leafs, "Hockey in Victoria City."

Victor Hawes, Royal Canadian Artillery, was fined $50 in city police court this morning for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Court was told Hawes was checked downtown and had a 12-ounce bottle of rum on him. He is 18.

Victorians lost one of their radio stations this morning from 8:30 to 8:50, when CKDA suffered technical troubles in its transmitter.

The transmitter was switched from a self-contained generator to B.C. Hydro power Wednesday. This was blamed for the failure.

ST. CROIX TO SERVE HERE

New Arrival Recalls Valiant Four-Piper of War

HMCS St. Croix will bring a history longer than her six years in the RCN when she arrives here Aug. 28.

The Restigouche class destroyer-escort commissioned Oct. 4, 1958, at Sorel, Que., is the second of her name to serve the Royal Canadian Navy.

The first was one of the 50 over-age U.S. destroyers acquired by the United Kingdom in a destroyers-for-bases deal in 1940.

The RN was unable to man all of them at the time and the RCN agreed to take seven of them. One was USS McCook, which was to become HMCS St. Croix.

Following hurricane damage repairs in 1940, the St. Croix served until November, 1941, in Canadian waters carrying out escort and patrol duties.

After a refit, she returned to duty in the spring of 1942 and was assigned to the mid-ocean escort force operating between St. John's and Londonderry, northern Ireland.

She sank her first German U-boat in late July when a convoy she was escorting was attacked by a wolfpack of 10 submarines.

She sank her second U-boat near the end of February, 1943, about 200 miles west of Vigo on the Spanish coast.

Later, she was allocated to a striking group formed for the offensive in the Bay of Biscay.

In September, she was despatched to aid a heavily-beset westbound convoy in that area.

On the night of Sept. 20, third anniversary of her arrival at Halifax to join the RCN, she was sunk—one of the first victims of the new acoustic homing torpedo.

HMS Polyantus, another escort, was also sunk trying to pick up the St. Croix survivors.

The following day, the British frigate Ichen picked up five officers and 76 men of the ship's company of 147, but yet another torpedo found her magazine and she sank immediately.

Only one member of the St. Croix crew, Stoker William Fisher, survived. He is now employed as an oil worker at Black Diamond, Alberta.

The new St. Croix is a far cry from her four-funneled namesake as far as armament and design are concerned.

Her sleek lines are of unit construction, incorporating a new Canadian fabricating technique which has been applied to Restigouche class DESs.

Instead of building from the keel up, in the conventional manner, each unit is constructed separately then carried to the ways to be positioned for final welding which is checked by X-rays.

Anti-submarine weapons are principal armament. They include two mortar mountings, each capable of firing three high explosive projectiles simultaneously with accuracy in any direction.

Other advances embrace sonar and homing torpedoes.

The St. Croix is currently steaming up the west coast of North America on her trip from Halifax where she has been stationed since her commissioning.

This will be her first trip to the west coast.

The St. Croix is manned by a predominantly west coast crew which left here Jan. 4 with HMCS St. Laurent on a round-the-world training cruise that ended at Halifax.

New St. Croix Shares Name, Rejoices In Tradition, Seeks Her Own Fame.

Cleaning Problems of Old Made Easy With New Aids

By PENNY SAVER

If we were in the habit today of wearing rings on our fingers and bells on our toes we would at least have one advantage over the woman in the nursery rhyme—our cleaning problems would be reduced to a minimum.

There is a special jewel cleaner on the market that is perfect for use on diamonds, platinum, gold and other precious jewels.

It sells at $1. To use, you simply dip the jewel, drain and wipe dry with a soft cloth. For very dulled or dirty jewelry, soak in cleaner and use a brush to clean. Cleaner is also useful on eyeglasses, but should not be used on pearls or pasted stones.

And, if the bells on her toes were silver, the fairy tale woman would have been able to keep them clean between wearings by hanging them in a cupboard containing two or more anti-tarnish balls.

Balls should be hung in the top corners of showcases and in both top and bottom corners of wall cases. They absorb all moisture in the cases and prevent any type of silverware from tarnishing. Balls gradually evaporate. Under normal conditions however, they last for one year.

Any time of the year is gift time, so if there is a golfer coming up on your list, here's the latest gimmick for him.

Same shop is now selling automatic golfer's score-keepers at $7.95. Gadgets are equipped with a button for keeping track of the number of strokes used on every hole.

After each hole has been completed, the golfer marks down his score and clears the gadget by pushing another button on the opposite side.

Scorekeepers are available in either key chain style, with silver chain and clasp, or watch style with a contrasting leather band.

Another handy gadget for anyone in any walk of life—especially those who occasionally find themselves to be the recipient of a parking ticket—is a Swiss-made automatic timer. Timers sell at $4.95 and are a perfect size for carrying in pocket or purse.

Simply set dial for time wanted and buzzer will sound when time is up.

Penny will gladly tell you where she found these items if you'll call her at 382-3131.

Canada will hold their national convention in Charlottetown next week.

Present from Victoria will be Mrs. J. A. McLellan, a past president of the CWL in this city and presently a member of Provincial Council.

League projects for the anniversary of Canadian Confederation in 1967 are expected to be announced at the six-day meeting which will be under the chairmanship of national president Mrs. Hermon Stevens of Calgary.

The women will also hear reports from provincial presidents and are to vote on a number of resolutions for presentation to provincial and federal governments.

The Catholic Women's League was founded in 1920 and has about 1,800 member groups from coast-to-coast.

During the week-long visit, to be held in February, she will receive an honorary degree from the University of the West Indies.

Treat Rugs Like Poodles

Owners of poodles or other long-haired dogs are best equipped to care for those deep-pile area or accent rugs with orlon acrylic fibre. Like the poodle, the rug should be groomed frequently with a wire brush. Between brushings or whenever time doesn't permit them, the rug (not the dog) should be given a good shaking. This usually straightens out the fibres in a long-napped surface.

At the first sign of soiling, the rug should be laundered either by hand or mechanically, using tepid water and a mild detergent. Use a low temperature if tumble drying. When laundering by hand, rub the pile gently, rinse and squeeze out excess water before drip drying. Try to hang the rug in an accessible place such as over the shower rod where it can be shaken several times. Whatever method is used, always give the rug a vigorous brushing when bone dry to restore its soft, fluffy appearance and rich color.

Set Date

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dark, 3141 Alder Street, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Joanne, to Mr. Keith Milton Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hart of North Vancouver. The marriage will be solemnized on Friday, Aug. 28 at 7 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church. Miss Dark is a 1963 graduate of Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing.

Couple Wed Here, Honeymoon In Hawaii

Mr. and Mrs. William Carlow are now honeymooning in Hawaii.

Rev. H. R. C. Whitmore officiated at the Saturday evening ceremony in Wilkinson Road United Church when Helen May Copley, daughter of Mrs. Frank Copley, 4220 Quadra Street, and the late Mr. Copley, became the bride of the son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Carlow, 37 Maquina Road.

The church was decorated with carnations and gladioli in yellow, gold, bronze and orange tones. Pews were marked with white ribbons and silver bells.

Frank Copley Jr. gave his sister in marriage. Her floor-length gown of heavy satin was fashioned on classic lines with a low rounded neckline, lily point sleeves, empire waistline and an A-line skirt, slightly on train. The veil misted to floor-length from a cluster of calla lilies. Green orchids, stephanotis and orange blossoms formed the cascade bouquet. For jewelry she wore the groom's gift, cameo earrings and matching pendant.

Floor-length gowns of orange satin and white organza picture hats were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Pepper, bridesmatron, Mrs. James Boon, the bride's sister and bridesmaid, Miss Sandra Christison. Their bouquets were tangerine carnations, stephanotis and ivy.

Shannon Keyes made a charming flower girl in a full-length dress of white organza, sashed in orange, which showed a hint of the white lace pantaloons she wore. A wide white ribbon banded her white hat. She carried a purse of white straw and organza, decorated and filled with feathered tangerine carnations, white roses and ivy.

Robert C. Bloomfield was best man and ushers were Robert T. Copley, brother of the bride and Reginald S. Meeres. Mrs. Fred Carver, the bride's aunt sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Norman Copley, Mill Bay, proposed the toast to his niece's happiness at the reception, held in the Union Centre.

Mrs. A. Bown, the bride's grandmother had made the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table. White candles and yellow, green, orange and bronze gladioli completed decor.

Hall was decorated in fall colors of yellow, orange and bronze.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a jade knitted dress and jacket, toning hat trimmed in white net, black accessories and white gardenia corsage.

Cowboy-Admiral to Retire Here

An enterprising doctor, whose colorful career saw him ringing the changes from cowboy and horse wrangler to ordinary seaman, and finally admiral, arrives in Victoria to retire next week.

Surgeon Rear-Admiral T. Blair McLean, surgeon-general of the Canadian armed forces since January, 1960, retires September 30, one day after his 54th birthday.

He stresses that his retirement is voluntary and "nothing to do with Bill 20 and other recent legislation." He plans a few months of "quiet contemplation" and afterwards hopes to be involved in clinical or administrative work.

Born on a homestead near Legal, Alta., the admiral is the son of pioneer parents. An expert cowboy and horse wrangler, he joined the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve in Edmonton as an ordinary seaman when he was 19 in order to earn a little more money to pay his way through university.

After graduating from the University of Alberta, Admiral McLean became a surgeon-lieutenant at the outbreak of the Second World War.

He is one of the exclusive "club of seven" who survived the sinkings of HMCS Fraser and HMCS Margaree. He received a mention in despatches for his services during the sinking of the former. Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, is another "club member."

Surgeon Rear-Admiral McLean and his family are well-known on this coast for much of his post-war service was at Esquimalt. After the war, he remained with the RCN as principal medical officer of the navy's hospital here and was later promoted to command medical officer.

Later appointments included two years training in orthopaedic surgery at San Diego, deputy medical director in Ottawa, principal medical officer in British Columbia and medical director general of the RCN.

Mrs. Sonia Basanta, 2885 Dysart Road, has announced the forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Susan Carol, to Mr. Albert Paul Boden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ward, 8591 Democross Terrace. The wedding will take place in St. John's Anglican Church on September 5 at 7:15 p.m. with Canon George Biddle officiating. Miss Basanta is the daughter of Mr. F. L. Basanta, Vancouver. HE HATES THEM 'SKINNY'

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—New York fashion designer Oleg Cassini is enlisting the charms of Swedish women in a battle against the cult of what he calls the "skinny and too mannish" model.

During a recent visit to Europe, he came to Sweden to interview likely candidates for modelling. He was enthusiastic.

"What I want to do is to create a new look called the 'natural look,'" he said. "Scandinavian beauty has always appealed to me, and I have found that there are extraordinarily attractive girls here."

"I am sure that I can find some good models without make-up, with long hair which has not been spoiled by too many fashionable hairdressers, and who are athletic looking."

Ask for Expanded Divorce Law

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Federation of University Women Wednesday called on the federal government to expand grounds for divorce in Canada.

The CFUW triennial conference here passed a resolution asking that courts in provinces and territories that desire it be able to grant divorces on grounds of cruelty, desertion without cause for three years, or insanity not cured after five years' treatment.

The Victoria University Women's Club, in submitting the resolution, called present divorce laws in Canada "outdated and inadequate to our present society."

Existing laws, the club said, lead to the commission of fraud and perjury in the courts.

The resolution also asked the government to restrict divorces during the first three years of a marriage to cases of exceptional hardship.

The club said that present laws allow a divorce to be granted whether or not any effort has been made to prevent a marriage from breaking up.

A second part of the resolution asked member clubs to study marriage laws with the idea of suggesting changes that would discourage hasty, ill-advised marriages and establishing uniform marriage laws across Canada.

The Victoria resolution said that under existing laws marriage may be entered into too lightly or too early. The club also said the mobility of Canada's population makes greater uniformity of marriage laws desirable.

Among resolutions to be considered at the convention today was one from the University Women's Club of Vancouver asking that a section of the Criminal Code be amended, eliminating the ban on sale or distribution of birth-control devices or information.

Sample Swatch May Mislead Many Knitters
Dear Eunice Farmer:
I've been disappointed again! Orion yarn will not block out as woolen yarns do. Perhaps your readers (the knitters) will be able to tell me how to adapt a regular knitting pattern to this unstretchable yarn. Being sensitive to wool, nylon or orlon yarns are my only hope and I adore knitting!

Mrs. N. C.

Dear Mrs. N. C.:
Perhaps you will have to use a larger pattern size when you are working with yarn that has no give. It's best to do some measurement checking before going too far.

I've also been told by a knitting instructor that the little sample swatch you knit as a sample for your gauge (the number of stitches per inch) often is not accurate because of the small sample. Often when you really knit any size at all your stitches either become tighter or looser than your original sample, and that's one of the little things that causes problems when the garment doesn't fit. Always measure carefully as you go along and you can save hours of work.

THURS., AUG. 20, 1964

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. MacKenzie of Duncan, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sharon Merle, to Mr. James Milton Koster, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Koster of Nanaimo. The wedding will take place on September 5 at 7 p.m., in St. Andrew's United Church, Nanaimo, with Rev. Chris Jack officiating. (Lovick Studio, Nanaimo.)

WHY GROW OLD?

There are many very clever saboteurs waiting to rob women of their good looks and verve. Some of these are hurry, tension, poorly balanced meals eaten hurriedly, lack of exercise, too little sleep, inadequate care of the skin and hair because of rush and worry.

You do not notice what these underminers are doing to you, day by day. Instead, all of a sudden, you may realize that you have new wrinkles, that you jump when the telephone rings, that you are not as gay as you were, that your hair looks dull and that you are tired much of the time.

Don't let them slip up on you. Do you get two glasses of milk (skim or powdered fat free milk if you have a weight or cholesterol problem), fresh vegetables and fruits, meat and seafood, whole grain products and eggs and cheese in your diet?

Do you exercise regularly? Have you been giving your skin adequate care? Do you get seven to eight hours sleep usually?

Most important, have you learned how to relax? Have you learned to slough off or adjust to problems you cannot solve? Have you learned to take yourself less seriously? Do you have any real fun?

Artificial aids can promote a restful atmosphere which is conducive to relaxation. There is something very relaxing about water. If you cannot float on a river or listen to a babbling brook explore the possibilities of your bath. By all means use one of the perfumed oils or bath salts and be leisurely.

Keep the sprinkler going by the porch. Keep your skin fresher in the icebox. Rest with ice-cold cotton pads on your eyelids. Don't hurry. Don't worry if you can help it. The old world will rock along.

DEAR ABBY...

It's Bad Business!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not sound very serious to you, but it has caused a small war between my girl and me. I am a mechanic, 23 and single. I am going with a very nice girl who is 22 and works in an office. Her office is having a party. (A hayride, of all things.) They decided not to ask anyone who is NOT employed in their office. That isn't too bad. But the clincher is that no wives or husbands are invited. They are all over 21 and drinks are served. If I were a married man working in an office, I wouldn't go to an office party if my wife was not welcome. My girl is on the hayride committee and she says I don't work in an office and I don't know what I'm talking about; that any time you have married couples at a drinking party it always ends up in a drunken brawl. Am I wrong? Or is she?

MECHANIC
DEAR MECHANIC: She is. And, furthermore, if a married person is in danger of becoming involved in a "drunken brawl," he is better off with his own wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive (I'm told) 23-year-old woman who has more than her share of dates, so please don't think I'm man-hungry. I have a next-door neighbor who is approximately 26. He has been living there with his brother and sister-in-law for about a year. I am not the flirty type, so things have been going slow. I know he is shy, and so far the most I have been able to get out of him is a "hello." I know he is aware of my existence, but that's about it. I don't think he has a steady girl as he's home a lot. How can I go about wrangling a date with him?

INTERESTED
DEAR INTERESTED: Your best bet is to become better acquainted with the sister-in-law. You can always borrow a cup of sugar. Once she knows you better, if the man is available, interested, and normal, you'll have your chance. Otherwise, who needs him?

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know what to do about a neighbor who talks about sex all the time. No matter what anybody says, he always puts a dirty meaning to it, and gets off on his favorite subject. He uses filthy words, too. His wife must think it's cute because she is right there and she laughs right along with him. The rest of us are embarrassed and try to change the subject, but he can

Pink and White

Deep pink carnations and white gladioli were presented to bride-elect, Miss Helen Mudryk when Mrs. Cliff Hilton and her daughter, Miss Lynne Hilton entertained at a shower in their Diamond Street home. Pale pink carnations and white gladioli were received by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. L. Mudryk. Games were played and refreshments served. Invited guests included Mrs. M. Turner, Mrs. B. Carosella, Mrs. J. Lowe, Mrs. A. Frances, Mrs. R. Crook, Mrs. W. J. Kilby, Mrs. M. Randall, Mrs. P. Woodley, Mrs. F. Morrison and Miss Judy Allman.

turn any subject back to sex again. We are disgusted with him but don't know how to handle the situation. Any suggestions?

"MRS. CLEAN"
DEAR "MRS. CLEAN": A good friend could tell old foul-mouth to shape up or shut up. Unless one's around, how out of his company and avoid him. CONFIDENTIAL TO "SAL LOR ON THE U.S.S. KITTY" hope.

HAWK CVA-43: Glad to hear that under that uniform beats the heart of an "old-fashioned" boy who has respect for virtue and womanhood. Luxury Cruises
Man's Plan
By LES MILLIN

Yacht, Inc. consists of a man and a plan.

The man is former Victoria yachtsman Capt. Jim Fullerton. His plan is to attract Hollywood's biggest names for luxury cruises in B.C.'s coastal waters.

Jim is a former RCN lieutenant who used to lecture at Royal Roads.

Yachts, Inc. has been in business about a year as a yacht-broking firm, operating from Jim's West Vancouver apartment.

HANDLES FIVE

It also handles the chartering of five large yachts, the star position being held by the 112-foot Pacific Gold.

Another in the fleet is Calgary millionaire Max Bell's Campana. Jim is negotiating with airline companies to set up tours starting in Europe or the United States that would bring parties out to B.C. for charter yacht cruises.

"We have some of the most beautiful coastline in the world," he says.

FOUR-HOUR CRUISES

At present he is running four-hour cruises up Howe Sound for large parties, acting as skipper and providing catering services.

A project for next year involves a treasure hunt that would send searchers to seven locations for clues.

All seven, and the final treasure throw, would be within 50 miles of Vancouver.

LIKES YACHTS

Jim got into his business because "the sea is where I'm at home, and I like yachts."

"I've been obsessed with yachts ever since I was a boy in Powell River."

"If there's any meaning in saying the sea is in my blood, then I guess the sea is in my blood."

Aid Sought
From Ottawa
For Seamen

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Labor Council Tuesday night called for federal government intervention to aid 19 Greek seamen left stranded here when their ship, the Ioannis Daskalelis was sold to meet bankruptcy claims.

The council thus joined the B.C. Federation of Labor in urging that the Canadian Labor Congress take the matter up with Ottawa "to immediately resolve the present situation."

Bill Stewart, spokesman for the Marine Workers Union (CLC) said the CLC should take up the question with the Greek ambassador and "see that Vancouver is not going to become the residue for people to be thrown to the wolves by millionaire Greek shipowners."

Thirteen of the seamen are being housed in the sailor's home here and the others are in a hotel. Labor sources said they are claiming eight months back pay and have received only $140 each from the sale of the ship.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said he has been unable to get in touch with the Greek consul here and has written him a letter about the matter.

He added that even though the shipping company which signed the men on is bankrupt, some moral responsibility rests with Greek authorities to see that the men are properly taken care of.

SENATE KILLS BILL

LBJ Taken Off TV Hook

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Senate Democrats have relieved President Johnson of the burden of deciding whether to debate Senator Barry Goldwater in a radio-television campaign confrontation.

By a 44-41 vote the Senate tabled Tuesday night—and thus killed—legislation to suspend equal time provisions of the Communications Act.

The measure was similar to the one which paved the way for Kennedy-Nixon debates in 1960.

Cow Palace Rocks With Beatle Din

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—In every North American girl in her early teens.

For one-half hour, a capacity crowd of more than 17,000 shrieked as the British rock 'n' roll quartet sang 11 songs.

"It was quite an ordeal," said Sheriff Earl Whitmore of San Mateo county, who was in charge of 130 deputies.

"We've had President Eisenhower, Khrushchev, the Republican convention twice—this was the biggest," Whitmore said.

The faithful—mainly girls 12 to 15 years old—sat through a variety of other acts for an hour and one-half before the Beatles ran unannounced onto the five-foot high stage, protected behind by a wood and wire fence.

Shrieking girls climbed on their chairs and ran down the aisles. The din never diminished throughout the entire act.

About a half dozen young girls were overcome by emotion and required first-aid treatment at the first-aid station. A boy suffered a dislocated shoulder. A girl was bruised.

It was the first performance of a 23-stop North American tour that continues tonight at Las Vegas.

Promoter Paul Catlana said the gate was around $90,000.

Commenting on his report on the Profumo scandal, he denied that England's security procedures are slack.

"It is much better if there is a breach of security it should be brought out rather than swept under the rug."

"If these things had not come out, nobody would know about them and people would say we had a marvelous security system."

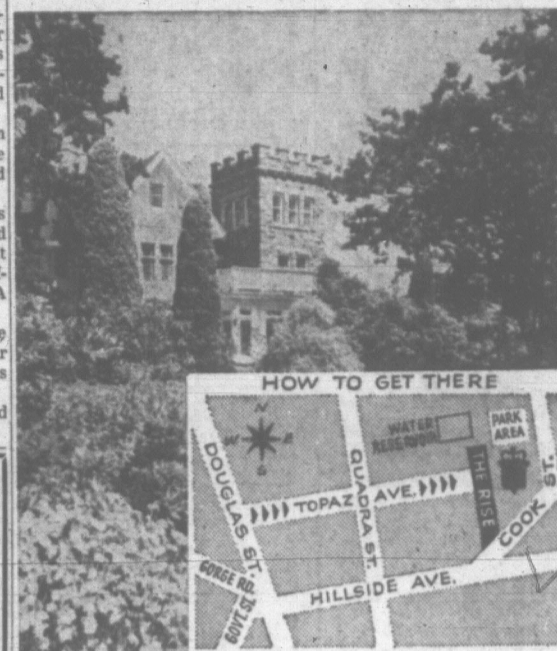

"Our security services do their work very well."

Lord Denning, who presides over Britain's appeal court, said the increase of crime is one of today's greatest problems.

"Far from poverty breeding crime, the reverse seems to be true," he said.

He blamed the increase on lack of strong home influence, lack of religion and a dull life.

Lord Denning will be leaving Vancouver before the Beatles arrive Saturday.

Gilbey's explain how to trim a gin and bitter lemon

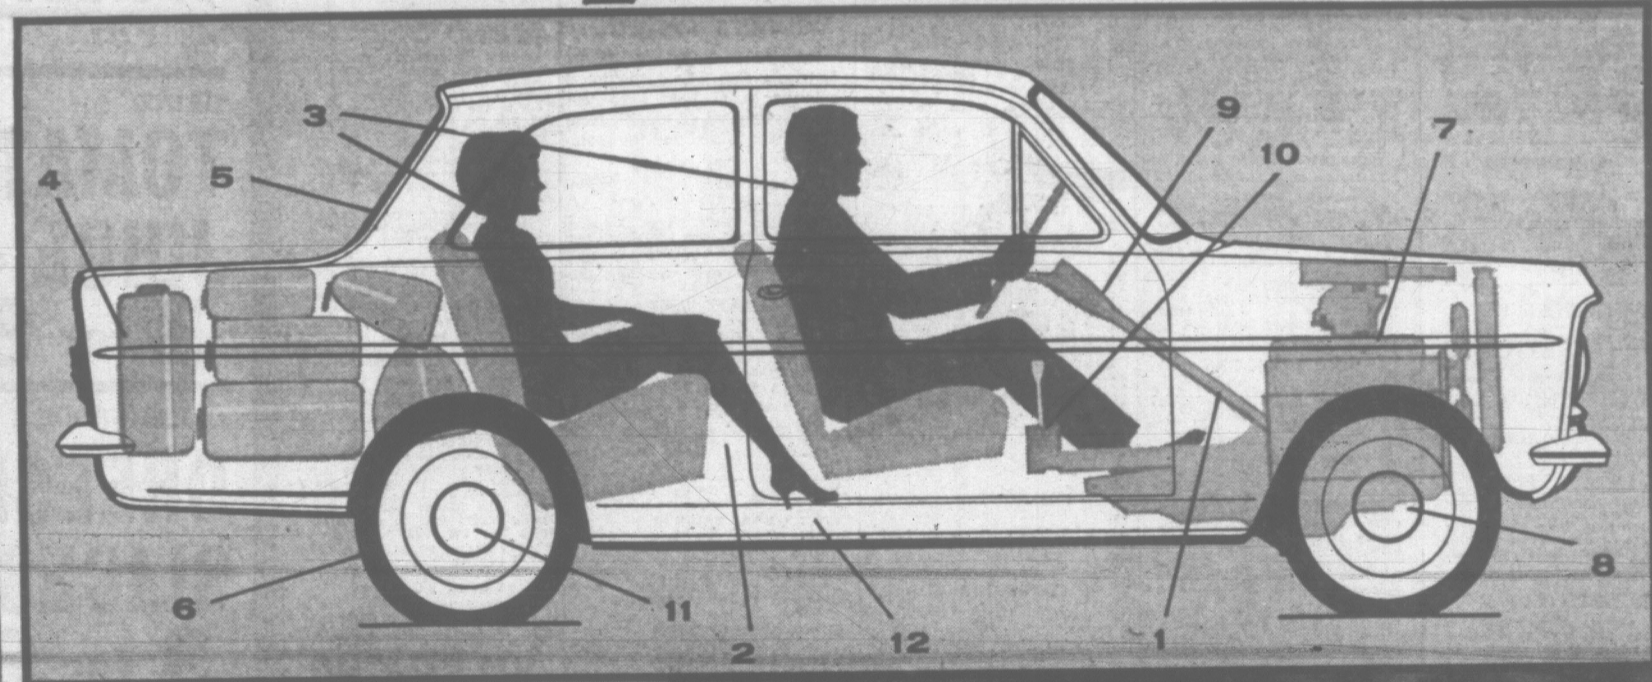

Some gins have rather strong flavouring. Others are utterly tasteless. Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance for the novel gin and bitter lemon. A dry flavour that has been the international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

A lemon slice trims a gin and bitter lemon to perfection. Either on the edge of your glass or immersed.

French Film Top Winner

France won senior honors when the Victoria International Film Festival wound up its third season Wednesday night in the Empress Hotel.

Top prize was awarded the French film, Montagnes Magiques, and second prize was given to Canada for Fields of Sacrifice.

Two of the nine category awards were presented to B.C. producers and a third was given to the National Film Board.

Victoria photographer Karl Spreitz won an award for a 20-minute documentary titled Steelhead Fishing in the Cowichan River. It featured well-known guide and painter Ricky Cieslmar and depicted an authentic fishing trip.

A B.C. government film, Valley of the Swans, also won an award. It was a 30-minute nature film of bird migration in the Kootenay Valley.

Magie Molecule, an NFB production, won the third category award.

All awards are wooden plaques carved in the shape of salmon.

A special award of distinction for the quality of entries was won by British producers.

Other category awards included: Travelogue: Denmark, A City Called Copenhagen. Fantasy: Switzerland, The Happy Face of Switzerland. Anthropology: England: Pitcairn's People. Natural Resources: U.S. S.R., Land in the Ocean. Agriculture: U.S., Farmer and I.

Current Developments: Netherlands, Holland Today.

Awards were presented by Rear-Admiral Landmore, Ian McKinney, British Information Officer, and Mrs. A. B. Thompson, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board.

Program director Paul Courice reported a record attendance of 25,000 during the festival.

North Van Accepts Road Deal

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Municipal council will accept Highway Minister Gagliardi's offer to build a four-lane highway to Mount Seymour provincial park on a 50-50 basis, but will ask him to cut down on two expensive items.

Councillors voted Tuesday to prepare the road for four-lane traffic, but to pave only two lanes now, and to delay construction of a four-lane $800,000 bridge over the Seymour River.

Mr. Gagliardi estimated the cost of the whole project at $1,732,000.

Council's decision would reduce the cost to less than $1,000,000.

Militant Housewife Bound Over

TORONTO (CP)—Nola Brown, 29-year-old housewife charged with possessing an offensive weapon and discharging a firearm in a public place, was bound over Wednesday to keep the peace for two years.

The charges followed an incident July 23 when Andrew Black, 20, drove his ice-cream truck into the neighborhood and jingled bells to attract children.

Black told police a woman shouted at him to get off the street and then fired a .22 calibre rifle which hit a tire on his truck.

Mrs. Brown, who holds a dominion marksmanship badge, was forbidden by Magistrate M. J. Cloney to use her rifle for anything but target practice and hunting in the future.

Kayaker Found Dead

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The body of Erling Andersen, a 56-year-old Prince George printer, was found in the Stellako River Tuesday near his overturned kayak.

Mr. Andersen was three days overdue on a kayak trip from Francois Lake to Prince George. The kayak was found near the bottom of a six-foot fall earlier Tuesday.

Gov't Fires Lakes Ferry Engineer

The provincial cabinet Tuesday fired an engineer on its Arrow Lakes ferry.

The engineer, Sidney Adams, worked on the ferry which runs between Nakusp and Arrowhead on the Upper Arrow Lake.

Mr. Adams was suspended July 17.

A cabinet order said that it had been recommended his services be terminated under Section 69 of the Civil Service Act.

This section gives the cabinet power to fire.

Mr. Adams was not a member of the civil service, but an employee of the highways department.

A spokesman said the reason he was fired was "a matter of personal attention to duty."

Asked for further explanation, the spokesman said: "These are internal matters."

Trinidad Governor To Visit

Sir Solomon Hochoy, governor of Trinidad, and Lady Hochoy, will visit Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes on Friday.

On a five-day visit to British Columbia, the couple arrived in Vancouver Tuesday and were guests of W. D. H. Gardiner, district general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, and Mrs. Gardiner.

Wednesday they were entertained by Clarence Wallace, a former British Columbia lieutenant-governor, aboard his yacht.

'Full Plane' Sign Goes Up For Beatle Fans

A full plane load of Victoria fans will travel to Vancouver Saturday to hear the Beatles.

"We're sold out," said G. C. Parrott, Vancouver Island Coach Lines manager, who organized the chartered trip.

Fans will travel to Vancouver by bus and ferry, and fly back by chartered plane, arriving about 3 a.m. Sunday.

Escort will be Robert Butler, of Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

Oral Contraceptive Soon Ready for Men

LONDON (AP)—An American professor says scientists soon will perfect an oral contraceptive for men.

"We only have to overcome a few problems before we are ready to try out such an oral contraceptive," said Prof. Warren Nelson of the Albany medical centre in New York.

Prof. Nelson presented a paper Wednesday to the second international congress of endocrinology in which he told of experiments conducted at Penitentiaries in Oregon and Oklahoma.

In tests at the Oklahoma prison, he said a group of prison volunteers were given a pill called Depo-Provera. The sperm fell to essentially zero levels in about 50 to 70 days after treatment and remained at that level for about 100 days.

No decline in the libido (sexual desire) was reported, he said, but seminal volume decreased.

UN MOVE TO CYPRUS FIELD MARSHAL'S PLAN

LONDON (CP)—Field Marshal Sir Claude Auchinleck has suggested the removal of United Nations headquarters from New York to Cyprus.

In a letter to the Times Sir Claude writes: "Cyprus, for thousands of years, has been a meeting point for East and West."

"It is roughly equidistant between New York and Peking and is easily accessible from Europe and Africa."

"The removal of United Nations headquarters from New York might remove much of the suspicion felt by many people... that it may, in its present location, be unduly influenced by the United States."

ON BUS FARE FIGHT

Council Balks At Joint Plan

Esquimalt has broken ranks with Victoria and Vancouver municipalities over proposed bus fare increases.

In a letter to Mayor R. B. Wilson, on Tuesday, Reeve Alfred C. Wurtele says his council does not agree with hiring a specialist law firm to fight the municipalities' case at the present time.

Instead, he urges a meeting between municipal representatives and the provincial government.

The letter reads: "The council (Esquimalt), by unanimous vote, decided against the proposal of the Special Transit Committee that the firm of Simpson and Curtin be engaged as agents to act for the municipalities in hearings before the Public Utilities Commission on the subject of increased fares, etc."

"The council affirmed its policy that before any increase in the fare rates is authorized, arrangements be made for representatives of the municipalities to meet with representatives of the provincial government in order to discuss and assess the effect of the proposed increase."

WRITE PREMIER

It further asks a letter be sent to the premier or the provincial secretary stressing the effect which the estimated 21 per cent decrease in passenger traffic would have on downtown businesses, and congestion on streets due to more cars parking.

During the interim period, the letter suggests city solicitor T. P. O'Grady could sit at any Public Utility Commission hearings.

The letter has also been circulated to Oak Bay and Esquimalt reeves and to Mayor Bill Rathle in Vancouver.

The decision to break with the united front was taken by Esquimalt at a special meeting Monday.

They decided to send off the letter after Reeve Wurtele outlined the proposal to hire the Seattle law firm at a cost of $30,000.

Cost to Esquimalt would be around $750.

SCHOOL BAR STAYS DRY IN BURNABY

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's only school containing a cocktail bar will open Sept. 10.

However, the bar at the $7,000,000 B.C. Institute of Technology in suburban Burnaby will be completely dry.

It will be used to train students in the institute's two-year hotel, motel and restaurant management course.

"We have no intention of teaching any students to mix drinks," said a school official. "That's training which is given to bartenders by their union."

Financial operation of the bar will be included in the training given the embryo hotelmen.

Four Drown In Futile Rescue Bid

CORNWALL, N.Y. (AP)—A 12-year-old girl fell into Woodbury Creek Wednesday and her three brothers jumped in to save her.

None could swim, and all four died.

The victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. John Perrone, of Cornwall, were identified by police as John Jr., 13, Dolores, 12, Tony, 10, and Rocco, 5.

Laura Conklin, 12, told police Dolores slipped from a rock and fell into the creek. Tony leaped in after her and the others followed him, she said.

Cornwall is in the southern part of New York State.

Pressure of Work Delays Clyne Report

VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial government will have to wait another 10 days before it gets the report of the royal commission on expropriation procedures from its author, former supreme court justice J. V. Clyne.

Mr. Clyne, chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company, said Wednesday he has not been able to work on the report for the last three months because of the pressure of work.

He had planned to holiday until the end of August, but returned Wednesday because of a death in the family.

Mr. Clyne, appointed to conduct the inquiry three years and seven months ago, said last January he hoped to have the report in the hands of the government within a matter of weeks.

On July 17 he said the report would be finished within a month.

And Wednesday he said the government will get the report in a week or 10 days.

He said the report would contain recommendations for new expropriation laws.

Satellite Rocketed Into Place

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—American space scientists today rocketed the new Syncom-3 communications satellite into an apparent stationary orbit and set up a direct television link between Asia and the United States.

The feat was accomplished by a 19.6 second burst of a rocket aboard the satellite as Syncom-3 whirled over Sumatra on the third sweep of a temporary yo-yo orbit achieved Wednesday.

Two gas jets aboard the satellite will now take over and gently nudge the satellite eastward for about 10 days until it reaches the desired final position over the juncture of the International dateline and the equator.

"It looks good," a space agency spokesman said. But he said "it will be a number of hours until it is known whether the satellite has indeed achieved the world's first truly stationary orbit."

N-Arms Ban Backed

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union said today it is prepared to sign a general treaty banning the use of nuclear weapons. Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference such a treaty "would put an end to all nuclear aggression."

He expressed strong support for a proposal by Ethiopian delegate Mikael Imru that the next United Nations General Assembly should convene a world conference to draft a treaty outlawing the use of nuclear weapons in war.

Western delegates immediately described the proposal as impractical and likely to create a false and dangerous sense of security.

Imru said the conference should take action to implement a 1961 UN resolution urging the United States and Russia to consider the possibility of a general ban on the use of nuclear arms. He urged that a general convention laying down such a ban should be drafted quickly.

It was the first time the subject has come before the two-year-old disarmament conference.

Tsarapkin welcomed Imru's initiative.

"The Soviet government is ready to assume all the commitments attached to such a convention, provided other states do likewise," he said.

BURNS DOUBTFUL
The first western speaker in the debate, Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada said a declaration outlining the use of nuclear arms was "unlikely to produce useful results and, moreover, will give rise to a dangerous false sense of security."

Burns said such a declaration was unlikely to be observed by states which felt their security was threatened.

"History has shown that previous similar declarations have all been violated, without exception," he added.

U.S. delegate Clare Timberlake did not speak in the conference session but he told reporters afterward the proposal "remains as unacceptable to the United States as it always has been."

Pregnant Women Jump In Front of Trucks

SAIGON (AP)—Nearly 1,000 villagers led by children and pregnant women waving Buddhist flags swarmed around an armored personnel carrier at Tuy Hoa today, tying up a key portion of a massive anti-Viet Cong guerrilla operation of the South Vietnamese government.

While fuming South Vietnamese officers watched, the villagers jumped in front and back of vehicles deployed about 13 miles south of this coastal stronghold, preventing the weapons carriers and army units from moving.

Military sources said it was certain the villagers were about 85 per cent sympathizers of the Communist Viet Cong. No tough action was taken against them because of current Buddhist tension and fear of political exploitation by the Viet Cong.

The incident came as Buddhist leaders in Saigon scheduled protests against the Sunday ouster of Maj.-Gen. Duong Van Minh as chief of state by the ruling military junta.

U.S. advisers in the Tuy Hoa area said the demonstration was the first of its kind in their sector and other sources said the action apparently heralded a significant new Viet Cong tactic.

Some of the villagers placed their bodies in front of treads of armored personnel carriers, stalling the armored unit, which was a little below company strength, during vital hours of an operation by about a division of government troops.

In Saigon, a Buddhist leader assailed president Nguyen Khanh of the first anniversary of South Viet Nam's bloody Pagoda raids.

Addressing a rally of 4,000 Buddhist youths, the leader, Tich Tan Chau, criticized Khanh's assumption of additional power.

The rally was in commemoration of last year's pagoda raids against Buddhists by police under orders from the late president Ngo Dinh Diem.

Anxious to avoid an outbreak, police did not interfere during the rally and it ended without incident. But several Buddhist high school teachers said during the rally they were invited to

Flag Pact Hinted Nearer

OTTAWA (CP)—A 70-minute meeting of party leaders ended today with agreement to meet again Friday. Optimism was expressed by some of the leaders that a compromise will be agreed to in the current parliamentary stalemate.

Conservative Opposition Leader Diefenbaker declined comment on the meeting beyond saying that the party leaders would confer again Friday on the flag issue.

New Democratic Leader Douglas and Social Credit Leader Thompson said today's conference in Prime Minister Pearson's office discussed a number of proposals which seem to be grounds for a settlement.

Creditist Leader Caouette joined them in saying he too is optimistic about the outcome.

When the three leaders of the smaller parties left Mr. Pearson's office beyond Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Douglas became the principal spokesman.

A number of suggestions had been "tossed around" by the leaders, Mr. Douglas said.

"We haven't got to the stage where we can say there is a major compromise. We have been discussing a number of possibilities."

"I am slightly more optimistic. I think we have got closer together on one or two points. Whether the proposals will commend themselves to the various parties, this remains to be seen."

Richard O'Hagan, Mr. Pearson's press secretary, said Friday's meeting would be held at 11:30 a.m. EDT. He said it was expected this would be the concluding meeting after which Mr. Pearson would make a fairly complete statement.

It was the second meeting of the leaders this week.

It convened with the flag debate about to enter its 12th day in the Commons in an atmosphere charged with accusations of filibuster and ultimatum.

In Wednesday's debate, MPs showed as much concern for public reaction to the flag debate as for the issue itself.

The debate tally so far: 85 speeches. The breakdown shows 50 Progressive Conservatives, 21 Liberals, five New Democrats, five Social Crediters and four Creditists.

This is a sample of the kind of "soul-searching" the House heard:

Andrew Brewin (NDP-Toronto Greenwood): "Once the main issues have been made clear, continuation of debate on such an emotional subject can only serve to cause bitterness, and what is perhaps equally bad, boredom and irritation about the whole subject."

Steve Otto (L-York East): "We have turned this great debate into an internal palace dialogue which only we can understand. We have left the people of Canada completely on the outside and they have now lost patience with us. . . . We are going to lose their respect, as they have lost respect for this House."

RN FRIGATE CHASES YACHT FOR ROBBER

LONDON (AP)—A frigate of the Royal Navy sped out of port today with orders to stop a stolen yacht which may be carrying one of the escaped great train robbers.

The frigate HMS Russell, a 1,650-ton anti-submarine vessel, was sent at full speed from her berth near Glasgow. Search planes flew from ports along the Irish Sea, and a submarine cruising in the area got orders to keep her periscope up for the missing yacht.

No official would say for sure that the yacht was carrying Charles Frederick Wilson, one of the robbers who escaped from prison a week ago.

Unusual Security

Modern 'Torture' For Robbers

LONDON (AP)—Author Graham Greene today accused the British penal system of imposing something akin to torture on the jailed gangsters who staged the Great Train Robbery.

"A great deal is written about prison life in Communist countries," said Greene in a letter to the London Daily Telegraph. "Now we learn that in our own out-of-date overcrowded prisons, a man can suffer solitary confinement for an indefinite time, except for a brief period each day when he is distinguished from his fellow prisoners by a distinctive dress; that he sleeps if he can, in a cell with an ever-burning light observed by wardens every 15 minutes."

The unusual security precautions against members of the gang were disclosed last week following the escape from prison of Charles Frederick Wilson, one of the 12 jailed for last August's £2,600,000 ($7,800,000) haul in banknotes from the Glasgow-London mail train. Most of the loot has not been recovered and Wilson like the rest of the gang was being held in a maximum security cell.

Lack of Funds Cited by Thant

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—UN Secretary-General U Thant said today he might have to withdraw the UN peace force from Cyprus soon if it does not get more financial support.

At a press conference Thant was asked whether the force of 6,500 troops, police and medical personnel from nine countries would pull out of Cyprus when its six-month term expires Sept. 26.

He replied that he still lacked $2,000,000 in financial pledges from UN members necessary to make up the $12,730,000 needed to run the force for the six months.

"If such support is not forthcoming in the immediate future," he said, "it would appear necessary that the force may have to be withdrawn even before Sept. 26."

Canada is paying the cost of its own 1,130-man contingent in the Cyprus force. This is expected to amount to about $3,000,000 over the six-month period. Diplomatic sources said Canada has not been asked to make any additional contribution.

Thant said the UN mediator for Cyprus, Sakari S. Tuomioja of Finland, was stricken just when, for the first time, he had reported a "ray of hope" that he would be able to settle the Cyprus problem in his talks with Greece, Turkey and other countries.

Tuomioja suffered a stroke Sunday and is in hospital in Geneva.

The Secretary-General said the mediation efforts "will have to go forward." He added, "it is my intention to take such steps as future developments may require," but he denied reports that he has named a mediator or acting mediator to succeed Tuomioja.

The smoothly synchronized operation was over within 20 minutes. Not a shot was fired, although a brief scuffle developed between the UN troops and an angry delegation of about a half-dozen Turkish-Cypriots.

The raid was the first move by a special international group known as the Delta Force, commanded by Maj. John Beament of Ottawa, an officer of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

The force is an armored infantry group with supporting weapons comprising men of the Finnish, Danish and Canadian UN contingents. Its exact strength was withheld by the UN for security reasons. But it was disclosed that an entire company of Finnish troops participated today with smaller groups of Danish and Canadian soldiers.

Destruction of the posts was ordered by Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian commander of the UN force.

New Turkish Flights Protested by Greece

ATHENS (AP)—Greece protested today to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the United Nations and Turkey that Turkish war planes violated airspace over the Greek islands of Samos and Rhodes Wednesday night.

Defence Minister Peter Garofalias told reporters two Turkish jets flew repeatedly over the islands just off the Turkish coast.

Garofalias said the flights came after Greece had been given assurances by Ankara that flights over Greek and Cypriot air space would be halted.

It was the second report of Turkish flights over Greek soil in 10 days. The first concerned alleged flights over Crete and Rhodes Aug. 12.

SOMEBODY OUT TO GET PHILHARMONIC

'Mafia At Work in Music World'

LONDON (AP)—A discordant note echoed over Britain today as the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra defied a government order to shed its "royal" designation.

Along with the refusal came charges of a plot to kill off the orchestra, one of the world's finest.

"A mafia is at work in the music world," one musician said.

The orchestra has had a difficult time since the death of its wealthy and talented founder,

Sir Thomas Beecham, four years ago.

Last year it split with management under Beecham's widow and the musicians set out to manage themselves as a co-operative. At the same time their link was severed with the Royal Philharmonic Society.

Then Home Secretary Henry Brooke told the orchestra it could no longer use the title "royal" Philharmonic management replied:

"The orchestra's existence depends on the name. It would be irresponsible for the company to acquiesce in the destruction of the orchestra on other than artistic grounds."

Orchestra members insist that the word royal gives a big boost to the orchestra's selling power, especially in overseas markets for recordings.

Holland charged that underlying Brooke's demand was an intrigue among musicians to swing the Royal Philharmonic Society's influence behind other orchestras.

The society is an amateur body which runs a choir and sponsors concerts.

Kevin Holland, one of the management, said:

"We have engagements stretching more than two years ahead. All these are threatened if we have to drop royal from our title."

Holland charged that underlying Brooke's demand was an intrigue among musicians to swing the Royal Philharmonic Society's influence behind other orchestras.

The society is an amateur body which runs a choir and sponsors concerts.

'GOING TO SHOOT HIM'

Threat Diverts
Goldwater Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A telephone caller threatening to shoot Republican presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater Wednesday caused authorities to divert Goldwater's plane to an alternate airport as he returned to Washington from an Illinois campaign speech.

The Arizona senator's chartered four-engined Electra was scheduled to land at National Airport, across the Potomac from Washington, on the return trip from the Illinois State Fair at Springfield. But it was diverted to Dulles Airport about 20 miles from the capital.

A Federal Aviation Agency spokesman here said the threat

was telephoned to Chicago police. "We are going to shoot Barry Goldwater at 4 p.m.," the FAA spokesman quoted the caller.

The Chicago policeman who received the call asked who was going to do the shooting. "A Puerto Rican," was the reply, the spokesman said.

Goldwater's plane already was in the air on the trip back to Washington at the time of the call. A series of telephone calls from the Chicago police to the FBI here and from the FBI to FAA officials, who are in charge of Dulles and National airports, resulted in the change of airports, the spokesman said.

WOUNDED BOY
NEAR DEATH
AFTER FLIGHT

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 13-year-old Fort St. James youth is unconscious and in poor condition in hospital here with fragments of a .22-calibre bullet in his head.

Ronnie Prince was flown here Wednesday from Vanderhoof where he was first taken Tuesday after being shot accidentally while blueberry picking on the Neoslie Indian Reserve.

RCMP said Ronnie's six-year-old brother was holding the rifle when it discharged, the bullet entering the youngster's head just above the left ear.

The boys had apparently taken the rifle with them following reports of a bear in the area.

Five Day Clinic in Fourth Day Seventh-Day Adventists Report

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Health Minister Eric Martin commended the Seventh-day Adventist Church on its "very sincere effort" to help people to get rid of the smoking habit. "I gave up smoking four years ago and I feel a lot better for it," the minister said. "If I can do it, I'm sure most people can."

Arena Manager Sees Fat Hockey Revenues

Memorial Arena manager Jack Morgan today said he hopes that return of professional hockey next month will boost arena revenues by $50,000 a year. That amounts to a 25-per cent increase which will wipe out current operating deficits and go a long way in providing money for a variety of major and minor improvements to the building.

A Campbell River man was fined $50 and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to careless driving.

Ernest Keller was charged after he drove through an intersection and almost hit a pedestrian. Police said Keller had one hand on the steering wheel and an arm around a passenger. "There's a time for everything. There is no reason why you shouldn't use both hands," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

Lieut.-Gov. G. R. Pearkes will be in attendance.

Vocational School Site Sought Outside Victoria

The education department is looking outside the city area for the site of its proposed $2 million Victoria vocational school.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today suitable property is being sought well away from the downtown area. The site will probably be in Saanich, in an industrial zone.

Mr. Peterson said the government found it can be dangerous to locate too near to a city when it planned a vocational school for Prince George.

By the time construction plans were completed the city had grown so much that the school would have been in the middle of a new residential area. A new site had to be selected.

ST. CROIX TO SERVE HERE

HMCS St. Croix will bring a history longer than her six years in the RCN when she arrives here Aug. 28. The Restigouche class destroyer-escort commissioned Oct. 4, 1958, at Sorel, Que., is the second of her name to serve the Royal Canadian Navy.

The first was one of the 50 overage U.S. destroyers acquired by the United Kingdom in a destroyers-for-bases deal in 1940. The RN was unable to man all of them at the time and the RCN agreed to take seven of them. One was USS McCook, which was to become HMCS St. Croix.

Following hurricane damage repairs in 1940, the St. Croix served until November, 1941, in Canadian waters carrying out escort and patrol duties.

After a refit, she returned to duty in the spring of 1942 and was assigned to the mid-ocean escort force operating between St. John's and Londonderry, northern Ireland. She sank her first German U-boat in late July when a convoy she was escorting was attacked by a wolfpack of 10 submarines. She sank her second U-boat near the end of February, 1943, about 200 miles west of Vigo on the Spanish coast.

2,500 SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE AWARDED SOON

A record number of provincial government scholarships to first-year university students is expected this year, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today. Announcement of more than 2,500 winners will be made very shortly, he said. The government this year budgeted $570,000 for scholarships, an increase of $50,000 over 1963.

Delegates Decide If Talks Public

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today warded off protests by saying that initial meetings on amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipal services can be held in public if the delegates wish.

Five of the representatives to the first meeting, at 2 p.m. today, Wednesday protested Mr. Campbell's announcement that it would be private. "I'll be happy to leave it up to the delegates, it's their meeting," replied Mr. Campbell.

START PRIVATE
The meeting will begin in private, but if the delegates vote to throw it open, Mr. Campbell said he will not object.

In favor of holding it open are Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay and four representatives of unorganized areas, William Reader of Colwood; R. H. Willing, Langford; K. W. Rainey, Metcheson, and A. E. Beasley, View Royal.

FIRM DETAILS
"I don't think anybody wants to hold the discussions in Beacon Hill Park," Mr. Campbell said.

MAKE KNOWN
"But I have already said there will be ample opportunity for the delegates to make the proceedings known to their own people. I would expect them to."

"In the unorganized areas, it is the responsibility of the elected representatives to make their people aware of these things."

However, Mr. Campbell warned that there will come a time when the meetings must be confidential.

This will be when firm details of provincial legislation are discussed. "Legislation belongs to the legislature and we have no authority and could be severely criticized if the legislature hasn't had an opportunity to see the proposal," Mr. Campbell said.

The government traditionally maintains strict secrecy on its legislative program until it is presented in the House, which will meet again next January.

Sick Cadet Landed For Operation

A cadet stationed aboard HMCS Ste. Therese today underwent surgery for acute appendicitis in Oakland Naval Hospital.

The ship put back to get him ashore. The incident will delay Ste. Therese's arrival home until 3 p.m. Saturday.

The ill seaman is K. A. Burrows of Point Claire, Que., a member of the regular officer training plan. No bulletins have been issued on his condition.

He was reported sick before the ocean escorts left San Francisco Tuesday after disembarking the 12 survivors of the tug Sea Wolf, which burned and sank Saturday in the mid-Pacific.

The ship planned to stop at Eureka, Calif.; Coos Bay or Astoria, Ore., if his condition became worse.

Oak Bay Declines To Rezone

City Hall learned today that Oak Bay council has refused a second request for rezoning of the city-owned Mountain View Home property so it could be sold.

Mayor Wilson indicated he was disappointed but would not protest. The city originally asked for rezoning of the four-acre site on Cadboro Bay Road to high-rise apartment classification but this was turned down.

It subsequently asked for rezoning to apartment use with an eight-storey limit. This had now been refused by Oak Bay but with an indication that it may change its mind in a year or two.

"We certainly are anxious to sell the property and get our money out of it but I think we must be guided by the good judgment of Oak Bay Council," commented Mayor Wilson.

Clyne Stalling Says Strachan

B.C. JUST A FAR OUT PRAIRIE PROVINCE?

Opposition leader Robert Strachan today charged industrialist J. V. Clyne is withholding his report on B.C. expropriation laws at the suggestion of the provincial government.

He said Mr. Clyne is apparently waiting until after B.C. Hydro has taken all the land it needs for the Columbia River power project before submitting his recommendations for new laws.

Mr. Clyne was appointed royal commissioner into the subject in January, 1961.

He is head of B.C.'s biggest timber firm, MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, and a former judge.

IN 10 DAYS
Mr. Clyne said in Vancouver Wednesday his report will be submitted within a week or 10 days.

"He has said that before," commented Mr. Strachan. He recalled that Mr. Clyne said the report would be made this spring, and on July 17 said it would be in within a month.

"It is still my opinion that he has received the suggestion that it would not suit the purposes of either Hydro or the government until they have taken all the land they needed," Mr. Strachan said.

The opposition leader said the commission was set up because of widespread complaints about government land expropriation.

URGENT MATTER
"It was obviously a matter of urgency, not only because of road and pipeline construction programs, but also because of the Columbia River."

"To bring in the report after the pipelines are built and after the major highway program is pretty well completed and after the Columbia River is utterly ridiculous," Mr. Strachan said.

Hydro has already expropriated land in the Arrow Lakes region for the Columbia River project.

Victorians Line Up For Free Car Medical

Victorians are so anxious to have their cars safety-checked they are lining-up hours in advance to go through a provincial testing unit.

A failure rate of 40 per cent apparently does not deter motorists.

382 TOTAL
A total of 382 vehicles went through the tests in three days.

There were 154 rejects. However, 60 motorists have returned with cars repaired to go through the tests a second time.

An official said some cars arrived at 9:30 this morning at the testing ground, the parking lot behind Memorial Arena.

However, they mistakenly believed testing would start at 10 a.m. instead of 1 p.m., he said.

But many motorists waited up to two hours Tuesday and Wednesday, the official said.

Wednesday 250 cars were tested. Of these 94 failed, but 40 returned after repairs.

RESPONSE EXCELLENT
A spokesman for the attorney-general's department said public response to the voluntary tests has so far been excellent.

"So long as the public responds to the voluntary nature of these tests and defective vehicles are repaired, there would not seem to be anything more needed," he said.

He said it has not been decided yet how closely to follow up enforcement of repairs.

At the moment the only follow up action planned is a letter warning the driver that his vehicle should be put in safe condition.

So far the most common defect uncovered by the tests is faulty headlamps, accounting for about one-quarter of the total failures.

Oak Bay is Test Case For Women Electors

The Association of Women Electors has launched a campaign to put 1,000 more names on the Oak Bay voters' list.

The drive to recruit delinquent voters in time for the next municipal election is headed by Mrs. S. W. Shackell, 1044 Oliver Street.

Mrs. Shackell believes that many residents miss the opportunity to vote in municipal affairs simply because they do not know they are eligible.

Oak Bay was chosen by the association as a testing ground, and if there is an appreciable difference in the number of voters turning out at the poll in December an effort will be made next year to recruit delinquent voters in other municipalities.

LETTERS SENT
Letters are being sent out with all water bills this month. Apartment dwellers will be reached as members of the association deliver the letters personally.

The association hopes to reach all renters, wives of property owners, sons and daughters age 21, and residents of boarding homes, whose names do not already appear on the List of Electors.

Sick Cadet Landed For Operation

A cadet stationed aboard HMCS Ste. Therese today underwent surgery for acute appendicitis in Oakland Naval Hospital.

The ship put back to get him ashore. The incident will delay Ste. Therese's arrival home until 3 p.m. Saturday.

The ill seaman is K. A. Burrows of Point Claire, Que., a member of the regular officer training plan. No bulletins have been issued on his condition.

He was reported sick before the ocean escorts left San Francisco Tuesday after disembarking the 12 survivors of the tug Sea Wolf, which burned and sank Saturday in the mid-Pacific.

The ship planned to stop at Eureka, Calif.; Coos Bay or Astoria, Ore., if his condition became worse.

Oak Bay Declines To Rezone

City Hall learned today that Oak Bay council has refused a second request for rezoning of the city-owned Mountain View Home property so it could be sold.

Mayor Wilson indicated he was disappointed but would not protest. The city originally asked for rezoning of the four-acre site on Cadboro Bay Road to high-rise apartment classification but this was turned down.

It subsequently asked for rezoning to apartment use with an eight-storey limit. This had now been refused by Oak Bay but with an indication that it may change its mind in a year or two.

"We certainly are anxious to sell the property and get our money out of it but I think we must be guided by the good judgment of Oak Bay Council," commented Mayor Wilson.

ST. CROIX TO SERVE HERE

HMCS St. Croix will bring a history longer than her six years in the RCN when she arrives here Aug. 28. The Restigouche class destroyer-escort commissioned Oct. 4, 1958, at Sorel, Que., is the second of her name to serve the Royal Canadian Navy.

The first was one of the 50 overage U.S. destroyers acquired by the United Kingdom in a destroyers-for-bases deal in 1940. The RN was unable to man all of them at the time and the RCN agreed to take seven of them. One was USS McCook, which was to become HMCS St. Croix.

Following hurricane damage repairs in 1940, the St. Croix served until November, 1941, in Canadian waters carrying out escort and patrol duties.

After a refit, she returned to duty in the spring of 1942 and was assigned to the mid-ocean escort force operating between St. John's and Londonderry, northern Ireland. She sank her first German U-boat in late July when a convoy she was escorting was attacked by a wolfpack of 10 submarines. She sank her second U-boat near the end of February, 1943, about 200 miles west of Vigo on the Spanish coast.

Delegates Decide If Talks Public

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell today warded off protests by saying that initial meetings on amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipal services can be held in public if the delegates wish.

Five of the representatives to the first meeting, at 2 p.m. today, Wednesday protested Mr. Campbell's announcement that it would be private. "I'll be happy to leave it up to the delegates, it's their meeting," replied Mr. Campbell.

START PRIVATE
The meeting will begin in private, but if the delegates vote to throw it open, Mr. Campbell said he will not object.

In favor of holding it open are Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay and four representatives of unorganized areas, William Reader of Colwood; R. H. Willing, Langford; K. W. Rainey, Metcheson, and A. E. Beasley, View Royal.

FIRM DETAILS
"I don't think anybody wants to hold the discussions in Beacon Hill Park," Mr. Campbell said.

MAKE KNOWN
"But I have already said there will be ample opportunity for the delegates to make the proceedings known to their own people. I would expect them to."

"In the unorganized areas, it is the responsibility of the elected representatives to make their people aware of these things."

However, Mr. Campbell warned that there will come a time when the meetings must be confidential.

This will be when firm details of provincial legislation are discussed. "Legislation belongs to the legislature and we have no authority and could be severely criticized if the legislature hasn't had an opportunity to see the proposal," Mr. Campbell said.

The government traditionally maintains strict secrecy on its legislative program until it is presented in the House, which will meet again next January.

OTTAWA (CP)—A 70-minute meeting of party leaders ended today with agreement to meet again Friday. Optimism was expressed by some of the leaders that a compromise will be agreed to in the current parliamentary stalemate.

Conservative Opposition Leader Diefenbaker declined comment on the meeting beyond saying that the party leaders would confer again Friday on the flag issue.

New Democratic Leader Douglas and Social Credit Leader Thompson said today's conference in Prime Minister Pearson's office discussed a number of proposals which seem to be grounds for a settlement. Creditist Leader Caouette joined them in saying he too is optimistic about the outcome.

TOSSED AROUND

When the three leaders of the smaller parties left Mr. Pearson's office behind Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Douglas became the principal spokesman.

A number of suggestions had been "tossed around" by the leaders, Mr. Douglas said. "We haven't got to the stage where we can say there is a major compromise. We have been discussing a number of possibilities."

"I am slightly more optimistic. I think we have got closer together on one or two points. Whether the proposals will commend themselves to the various parties, this remains to be seen."

Richard O'Hagan, Mr. Pearson's press secretary, said Friday's meeting would be held at 11:30 a.m. EDT. He said it was expected this would be the concluding meeting after which Mr. Pearson would make a fairly complete statement.

It was the second meeting of the leaders this week. It convened with the flag debate about to enter its 12th day in the Commons in an atmosphere charged with accusations of filibuster and ultimatum.

In Wednesday's debate, MPs showed as much concern for public reaction to the flag debate as for the issue itself.

BREAKDOWN

The debate tally so far: 55 speeches. The breakdown shows 50 Progressive Conservatives, 21 Liberals, five New Democrats, five Social Crediters and four Creditists.

This is a sample of the kind of soul-searching the House heard: Andrew Brewin (NDP-Toronto Greenwood): "Once the main issues have been made clear, it is time to move on."

Fontinato's colorful career as a hockey "tough guy" ended March 9, 1963, when he suffered a broken neck.

Soviet Backs
N-Weapons Ban

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union said today it is prepared to sign a general treaty banning the use of nuclear weapons.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference such a treaty "would put an end to all nuclear aggression."

He expressed strong support for a proposal by Ethiopian delegate Mikael Imru that the next United Nations General Assembly should convene a world conference to draft a treaty outlawing the use of nuclear weapons in war.

Western delegates immediately described the proposal as impractical and likely to create a false and dangerous sense of security.

Imru said the conference should take action to implement a 1961 UN resolution urging the United States and Russia to consider the possibility of a general ban on the use of nuclear arms. He urged that a general convention laying down such a ban should be drafted quickly.

It was the first time the subject has come before the two-year-old disarmament conference.

Tsarapkin welcomed Imru's initiative. "The Soviet government is ready to assume all the commitments attached to such a convention, provided other states do likewise," he said.

Satellite
Rocketed
Into Place

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—American space scientists today rocketed the new Syncom-3 communications satellite into an apparent stationary orbit and set up a direct television link between Asia and the United States.

The feat was accomplished by a 10.8 second burst of a rocket aboard the satellite as Syncom-3 whirled over Sumatra on the third sweep of a temporary yo-yo orbit achieved Wednesday.

Two gas jets aboard the satellite will now take over and gently nudge the satellite eastward for about 10 days until it reaches the desired final position over the juncture of the international dateline and the equator.

"It looks good," a space agency spokesman said. But he said "it will be a number of hours until it is known whether the satellite has indeed achieved the world's first truly stationary orbit."

Withdrawal of Units Possible

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—UN Secretary-General U Thant said today he might have to withdraw the UN peace force from Cyprus soon if it does not get more financial support.

At a press conference Thant was asked whether the force of 6,500 troops, police and medical personnel from nine countries would pull out of Cyprus when its six-month term expires Sept. 26.

He replied that he still lacked $2,000,000 in financial pledges from UN members necessary to make up the $12,730,000 needed to run the force for the six months.

"If such support is not forthcoming in the immediate future," he said, "it would appear necessary that the force may have to be withdrawn even before Sept. 26."

Canada is paying the cost of its own 1,130-man contingent in the Cyprus force. This is expected to amount to about $3,000,000 over the six-month period. Diplomatic sources said Canada has not been asked to make any additional contribution.

Thant said the UN mediator for Cyprus, Sakari S. Tuomioja of Finland, was stricken just when, for the first time, he had reported a "ray of hope" that he would be able to settle the Cyprus problem in his talks with Greece, Turkey and other countries.

Tuomioja suffered a stroke Sunday and is in hospital in Geneva.

The Secretary-General said the mediation efforts "will have to go forward." He added, "it is my intention to take such steps as future developments may require," but he denied reports that he has named a mediator or acting mediator to succeed Tuomioja.

Turkish Posts
Torn Down

NICOSIA (CP)—A special United Nations force of "highly mobile, well-armed trouble-shooters," commanded by a Canadian, moved swiftly into the northern outskirts of Nicosia today and tore down three sandbagged Turkish positions overlooking the UN's Nicosia zone headquarters.

The smoothly synchronized operation was over within 20 minutes. Not a shot was fired, although a brief scuffle developed between the UN troops and an angry delegation of about a half-dozen Turkish-Cypriots.

The raid was the first move by a special international group known as the Delta Force, commanded by Maj. John Beament of Ottawa, an officer of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

The force is an armored infantry group with supporting weapons comprising men of the Finnish, Danish and Canadian UN contingents. Its exact strength was withheld by the UN for security reasons, but it was disclosed that an entire company of Finnish troops participated today with smaller groups of Danish and Canadian soldiers.

Destruction of the posts was ordered by Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian commander of the UN force.

Pregnant Women Jump
In Front of Trucks

SAIGON (AP)—Nearly 1,000 villagers led by children and pregnant women waving Buddhist flags swarmed around an armored personnel carrier at Tuy Hoa today, tying up a key portion of a massive anti-Viet Cong guerrilla operation of the South Vietnamese government.

While turning South Vietnamese officers watched, the villagers jumped in front and back of vehicles deployed about 12 miles south of this coastal stronghold, preventing the weapons carriers and army units from moving.

Military sources said it was certain the villagers were about 85 per cent sympathizers of the Communist Viet Cong. No tough action was taken against them because of current Buddhist tension and fear of political exploitation by the Viet Cong.

The incident came as Buddhist leaders in Saigon scheduled protests against the Sunday ouster of Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh as chief of state by the ruling military junta.

U.S. advisers in the Tuy Hoa area said the demonstration was the first of its kind in their sector and other sources said the action apparently heralded a significant new Viet Cong tactic.

Some of the villagers placed their bodies in front of treads of armored personnel carriers, stalling the armored unit, which was a little below company strength, during vital hours of an operation by about a division of government troops.

In Saigon, a Buddhist leader assailed president Nguyen Khanh on the first anniversary of South Viet Nam's bloody Pagoda raids.

Addressing a rally of 4,000 Buddhist youths, the leader, Tich Tan Chau, criticized Khanh's assumption of additional power.

The rally was in commemoration of last year's pagoda raids against Buddhists by police under orders from the late president Ngo Dinh Diem.

Anxious to avoid an outbreak, police did not interfere during the rally and it ended without incident. But several Buddhist high school teachers said during the rally they were invited to Orchestra members insist that the word royal gives a big boost to the orchestra's selling power, especially in overseas markets for recordings.

Kevin Holland, one of the management, said: "We have engagements stretching more than two years ahead. All these are threatened if we have to drop royal from our title."

Holland charged that underlying Brooke's demand was an intrigue among musicians to swing the Royal Philharmonic Society's influence behind other orchestras.

lining the use of nuclear arms was "unlikely to produce useful results and, moreover, will give rise to a dangerous false sense of security."

Burns said such a declaration was unlikely to be observed by states which felt their security was threatened.

"History has shown that previous similar declarations have all been violated, without exception," he added.

U.S. delegate Clare Timberlake did not speak in the conference session but he told reporters afterward the proposal "remains as unacceptable to the United States as it always has been."

clear, continuation of debate on such an emotional subject, can only serve to cause bitterness, and what is perhaps equally bad, boredom and irritation about the whole subject."

Steve Otto (L.-York East): "We have turned this great debate into an internal palace dialogue which only we can understand. We have left the people of Canada completely on the outside and they have now lost patience with us. . . . We are going to lose their respect, as they have lost respect for this House."

Edward Nasserden (PC—Rosthern): "This ill-fated Parliament, borne of minorities and intrigues, is witnessing another of those acts of carelessness which so vividly portray the petulance of the present prime minister. . . . This (is) one of the most unproductive Parliaments in Canadian history."

NO CHANGE SIGHTED

None of the three speeches gave any inkling of a change in party positions on the issue itself. The Liberals stand behind the flag with three maple leaves. The Conservatives want a plebiscite. The NDP favors a single maple leaf.

In a flare-up during the question period, before the flag debate began, Prime Minister Pearson said the government wants a parliamentary recess after the flag issue is settled, then it would proceed with the Canada Pension Plan.

However, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker sought assurance that the pension legislation will be dealt with immediately after the flag resolution is "disposed of."

"If he does, we will be behind him on the pension legislation 100 per cent," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Pearson said he would be happy to give that assurance if Mr. Diefenbaker would "give me an assurance that we will be finished with the flag resolution in time to deal with the pension legislation."

police headquarters for questioning.

WARN OF DEMONSTRATION

Buddhist monks said if the teachers are detained, massive demonstrations would probably be held in front of police headquarters.

Trouble was anticipated in the central Vietnamese city of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, where Buddhist demonstrations and a torchlight parade were scheduled tonight and Friday.

Authorities in the Hue area sought to meet the Buddhist half-way by declaring Friday a holiday with time off for Buddhist soldiers and officials.

Khanh, a Buddhist, had ordered his armed forces to avoid entanglement with political and religious groups. He also warned students to stick to their books rather than demonstrations, or they might find themselves in the army.

VOICE FEAR

At the Saigon rally, Chau praised Khanh and Minh for ousting Diem last November. But Buddhist leaders have voiced fear that Khanh, now that he has pushed Minh into the background, may create a regime similar to that of Diem.

Students attending the rally carried banners which claimed:

University Appointment For Officer

Wing Commander Jean Archambault, 51, of Victoria, has been appointed administrator of student affairs at University of Ottawa.

An announcement today said the step aims at greater involvement of laymen in senior positions at the bilingual Catholic university.

A resident of Victoria for the past two years, W/C Archambault is former chief staff officer of 5 Air Division, disbanded several months ago.

The new administrator is himself bilingual.

"I know I'll enjoy the work. The only sad part is that I'll be away from Victoria for so long at a time," he said.

His post, opening at the beginning of September, will normally be occupied for eight months of the year.

Meanwhile, he will maintain his home and family in Victoria.

Unusual Security

Modern 'Torture' For Robbers

LONDON (AP) — Author Graham Greene today accused the British penal system of imposing something akin to torture on the jailed gangsters who staged the Great Train Robbery.

"A great deal is written about prison life in Communist countries," said Greene in a letter to the London Daily Telegraph. "Now we learn that in our own out-of-date overcrowded prisons, a man can suffer solitary confinement for an indefinite time, except for a brief period each day when he is distinguished from his fellow prisoners by a distinctive dress; that he sleeps if he can, in a cell with an ever-burning light observed by wardens every 15 minutes."

The unusual security precautions against members of the gang were disclosed last week following the escape from prison of Charles Frederick Wilson, one of the 12 jailed for last August's $2,600,000 ($7,800,000) haul in banknotes from the Glasgow - London mail train. Most of the loot has not been recovered and Wilson like the rest of the gang was being held in a maximum security cell.

Gales Hit Europe

PARIS (UPI) — Storms and gales hit the Atlantic and Mediterranean coasts and much of the south and west of France again today, causing havoc among the estimated 10 million persons on vacation.

In the past three days, according to unofficial estimates here, a total of 30 persons died as a result of the storms.

Stolen Poppies Lead Police to Opium Case

A man charged with possessing opium poppies changed his plea to guilty in city police court today after an RCMP constable read a confession to the court.

Melvin Essihos, 1120 Burdett, listened while one statement he was alleged to have made was ruled inadmissible, then asked Magistrate William Ostler if he could change his plea when a written confession was read into evidence.

Essihos was charged after former Oak Bay reeve George Murdoch complained of a man stealing poppies from his garden at 2240 Beach Drive on July 25.

Crown prosecutor George Gregory said he is not asking for a heavy sentence.

Mid-Ocean Rendezvous For Suds II

Victoria-based deepsea tug Sudbury II is expected to rendezvous with the disabled Greek freighter Atlantic Sun at 9 p.m. today.

The freighter lost her propeller a week ago on the 49th parallel and the International Dateline.

Since then she has been watched over by sister ships Atlantic Governor and Atlantic Grace.

The Atlantic Governor has towed the propellerless ship 700 miles toward the west coast since she took over from the fully-loaded Atlantic Grace Monday.

An Island Tug and Barge spokesman said today the Sudbury II will attach a line to the stricken freighter tonight if weather conditions permit.

The tug left Victoria Saturday and was forced to buck a stiff westerly gale.
